CABINET CHANGESVancouver Conservatives
Want Federal Minister to Enter Provincial Field

Despite a variety of reports in the last few days of leadership changes and mergers in wings of the Conservative Party with the object of bringing a united appeal to the country at the forthcoming provincial election, Premier Tolmie will remain at the head of the Government Union Party and seek return to power under its banner.

The attention of Premier Tolmie was drawn this morning to a report that when Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, arrived in Vancouver a drive was started among leading politicians to bring him into provincial politics as Prime Minister succeeding Premier Tolmie.

No appeal has been made to me directly or indirectly on the matter," Premier Tolmie said. "We are still here at the same stand going right ahead."

NO CHANGE IN HIS PLANS

Questioned further, Premier Tolmie stated he had considered no change in his plans since he announced his intention of appealing to the country under the Government Union banner. His emphatic announcement that he was not wavering from his original plans set aside the rumor that headway was being made with the ambitions of some Conservatives to secure an agreement from both the Premier and W. H. Bowser, K.C., to drop out of the provincial race and bring in a third man under whom Conservatives would join forces.

It is also reported that Mr. Bowser would not consider dropping his bid for office.

Indications this morning were that the Premier will remain in the fight and plans to go ahead with the promised cabinet changes to include outside groups.

"I have no announcement to make yet," Premier Tolmie said this morning when questioned further on prospective cabinet changes, but his remark, "the cabinet is not yet closed," indicated he intended to carry out his intention of bringing in more outside material before appealing to the country.

DRIVE FOR STEVENS
The Vancouver Province news item regarding the possible entry of Mr. Stevens in the British Columbia political fray follows:

"No sooner had Hon. H. H. Stevens, federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, arrived in Vancouver yesterday than a drive started among leading politicians to bring him into provincial politics as Prime Minister, succeeding Premier Tolmie."

Mussolini Pact Is Soon To Be SignedBritish and French Ambassadors at Rome Ready For Ceremony; German Statement Awaited

Associated Press
Rome, June 6.—Premier Mussolini, opening today's Senate meeting, said that "negotiations on the four-power pact have reached such a stage that in one sense or another they will arrive at a conclusion."

The Premier said he would address the Senate on the pact tomorrow afternoon if necessary.

Meanwhile the German ambassador informed the Italian Government he would present Berlin's answer within twenty-four hours. The delay was necessary, he explained, because Chancellor Hitler and Foreign Minister von Neurath were out of Berlin.

READY TO SIGN

Rome, June 6.—Sir Ronald Graham, British ambassador to Italy, today received instructions from London to initial the latest text of the Mussolini four-power peace pact.

CONVICT MAKES MONEY WRITING

Seattle, June 6.—Superior Judge J. T. Ronald three years ago sentenced Moscow Dowell to the state penitentiary for forgery. In two years Dowell has earned $5,000 by writing stories and now is offered a contract for a book. Dowell, who believes he could write books better outside the prison, has asked for a parole.

JAPAN REPLIES TO U.S. APPEAL

Tokio, June 6.—With the cabinet's approval and the Emperor's sanction, a reply to President Roosevelt's disarmament appeal of May 16 was telegraphed today to Ambassador Delucchi in Washington.

It was authoritatively indicated the answer is a brief and cordial endorsement of the President's proposals "in principle," although more definite statements as to Japan's position regarding disarmament and consultative pact and a pledge not to invade another state are reserved until these questions arise in international conference.

NEW AID TO DAIRYMEN

Madison, Wis., June 6 (Canadian Press).—Under terms of a bill passed by the Wisconsin Senate, all hotels, restaurants and other public eating places would have to serve with each meal two-thirds of an ounce of butter and a helping of cheese. The idea is to aid the dairy industry.

Curtis-Wright Engineer Says
Aviation Has Big Part in China's Future

"I believe he will make it and hang up a new record. He is a good pilot, resourceful, and will never admit defeat, even in the face of insuperable odds. Good luck to him."

The opinion was expressed by W. D. Pawley, of the Curtis-Wright Airplane Corporation, who returned from China yesterday evening aboard the liner President Taft, a friend of Jimmy Mattern, who is skyrocketing over Russia on an attempted world solo flight.

"I know Jimmy Mattern well and I know what he is capable of," added Mr. Pawley. "I am confident he will make the grade."

Mr. Pawley recalled that he met Jimmy Mattern at a public dinner given in honor of himself and Bennett Griffin following their return to the United States after a world flight attempt and which ended in a bog on the steppes of Russia. Since that unsuccessful flight, Mattern has been perfecting his plans to make the trip solo.

AVIATION IN CHINA
Mr. Pawley has been in China as representative of the Curtis-Wright Corporation, the well-known firm of flying machine manufacturers. His corporation organized the China National Aviation Corporation, holding company for the China Airways (Federal), which interests were disposed of two months ago to the Pan-American Airways.

Three services are in operation by the company, including a daily service between Shanghai and Hankow, tri-weekly services between Hankow and Chungking and Shanghai and Peiping. These services were started four years ago and have been operating successfully; and with the recent rise in air travel the routes are now on a pay-as-basis, said Mr. Pawley.

The Chinese are taking up flying enthusiastically, he said. The government maintains large aviation schools at Hangchow and Canton, and some of the best flying material in the world is employed in the instruction classes.

Mr. Pawley believes that aviation will play a big part in the future of China.

ALBERTA COAL
FOR ONTARIODetermined Market Drive to Follow Good News of Reduced Freight Rate

Toronto, June 6.—Plans for a determined drive to secure a substantial portion of Ontario's domestic fuel requirements were believed under way by Alberta operators today following receipt of advice of a lower freight rate of $5.50 a ton on coal shipped from Alberta to Ontario.

Notwithstanding the fact the drop in rates has been nullified to some extent by a cut in anthracite prices, Alberta, according to operators' representatives here, is looking forward to a good coal market in Ontario this year.

Calgary, June 6.—The new freight rate of $5.50 a ton on Alberta coal shipped to Ontario brought encouragement to coal operators in this province today. Increased shipments are looked for under the lower rate, announced in Toronto yesterday evening.

"It will mean at least 100,000 tons of Alberta coal will be shipped to Ontario in the year, starting June 1, when the new rate will become effective," stated A. Edmond, treasurer of the Coal Sellers Co. Ltd. "It is very encouraging to Alberta operators."

Mr. Edmond explained the new $5.50 per ton rate applied only to mines shipping coal to Ontario prior to December 31, 1933.

The old rate of $6.75 a ton expired last March and for some time Alberta operators had been pressing for a lower rate, preferring a flat rate of $5. The $5.50 mark, however, Mr. Edmond added, was welcome.

LOCOMOTIVE BEER

Pittsburgh, June 6 (Canadian Press).—Railroad locomotive No. 1071 is working twenty-four hours a day at the Hazelwood Beverage plant, helping to make beer. Sallor V. Brant, general manager, says the engine is providing auxiliary steam, pending the arrival of new machinery.

In a two-hour closed session it was agreed today to present to the income tax matters being pressed by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel.

The committee adopted a resolution to go on with other phases of the inquiry while a sub-committee drafts a proposal enlarging its power, to be presented to the Senate.

The resolution was offered by Senator Glass, Virginia Democrat, and Chairman Fletcher said it was supported by Pecora.

Police Pursue
Murder Inquiry

Oak Bay police stated today they were still working on the investigation of the murder of Sue Min Jim, Chinese houseboy at the home of H. M. McEwen, Uplands. Facts brought out in evidence at the inquest form the basis for the police theories. While Inspector J. P. C. B. Vance has returned to the mainland, the Oak Bay officers are pursuing various avenues of inquiry opened up by discoveries he made. There are certain factors in the case yet to be reconciled.

THREE SEIZED
BY BANDITSBut Gang Planning to Loot
Arkansas Town Foiled

Associated Press
Bison, Ark., June 6.—A band of between five and seven heavily armed men who Sheriff Roy Morrison said he believed were fleeing Kansas convicts were thwarted in an attempt to loot this town today after an early morning abduction of the night watchman.

Lights were turned on and an armed guard of citizens patrolled the streets after the alarm was given that Deputy Sheriff W. A. Fore, night watchman, and J. R. Perkins and Sam Rogers, a negro, had been kidnapped by three armed men in front of Harry Thomason's merchandise store about 1 a.m.

Thomason, awakened by Perkins and Rogers, who had come to deliver a load of hay from Stuttgart, witnessed the abduction of the men when he got up to meet Perkins, and heard them tell Fore they would return to "loot five or six safes." Their car bore Oklahoma license plates.

PURSUIT FAILED
Thomason immediately notified Sheriff Morrison, who ordered the town's lights turned on and assembled a citizens' patrol.

Fore, Perkins and the negro were released on the Bison-Pine Bluff highway about two hours later when the gang, traveling in two automobiles, spotted a carload of officers from Pine Bluff. The Pine Bluff police picked up Fore and Perkins and gave chase, but were outdistanced.

Fore said the three men who had taken him and the two other captives drove them to a wooded spot about three miles from Bison, where they met another car in which three or four men armed with sawed-off shotguns sat. Five or six other members of the gang headed back to Bison. In about half an hour or more, Fore said, they returned, their looting plans evidently thwarted by the presence of the armed guard.

Plane Seeks
Harbor LandingMail Plane Company Asks
C.P.R. to Withdraw Protest

Withdrawal of the protest of the Canadian Pacific Railway against the landing of mail planes in the Inner Harbor, which subsequently resulted in federal authorities restricting the landing of the plane to Esquimaut, has been requested by the Seattle-Victoria Air Mail Inc.

In a letter to C.P.R. officials, signed by F. F. Barnes, vice-president, it is pointed out that two years ago, when the complaint was first made, ship traffic in the harbor was considerably more congested than at present.

Since that time, however, the letter states, this traffic has decreased and in the meantime the air mail company has encountered many difficulties in delivering the mail and making steamboat connections, particularly with the Empress and Australian boats.

In regard to the landing at Esquimaut, the mail company has found the greater distance a serious handicap as well as the fact that it has been necessary to truck the mail from Esquimaut to the city. It is also pointed out that the Johnson Street drawbridge also proves a handicap, if the mail truck is held up by a passing ship.

It is understood the communication is being considered by leading C.P.R. officials.

London Daily Herald Is Barred From Germany

Berlin, June 6.—The London Daily Herald today was barred from Germany.

No reason was officially assigned for the act, but the explanation given by informed commentators was that it had resented from The Herald's general anti-German tendencies. The paper reached a climax last week, it was said, when the Labor newspaper reported the Deutsche Werke at Spandau had taken up the production of ammunition.

The Hitler government recently barred The Toronto Daily Star from Germany. Among British newspapers, The Manchester Guardian is not allowed to be brought into Germany.

Much Depends on World
Economic Conference

Canadian Press
Toronto, June 6.—People of western Canada have faced the unusual economic conditions with a courage that "rings true to the best traditions of the British Empire," declared Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta in addressing delegates of the annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association here today.

If present indications in the west were a criterion there would be a record crop this year and purchasing power, sufficient to set free the people from any feeling of insecurity, would be released, he said.

FIELDS SURVEYED
Toronto, June 6.—Declaring that on the approaching World Economic Conference in London depended to a considerable degree the happiness and prosperity of mankind and the preservation of the present form of civilization, W. C. Coulter of Toronto in his presidential address today at the opening luncheon here of the fifty-second annual general meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, devoted some attention to the international situation before reviewing more particularly domestic conditions and prospects.

"While the world looks forward with confidence and courage to the conference," Mr. Coulter said, "believing much will be accomplished, it is well to remember the intellects and powers of men are very limited, especially when they are in the grip of upheavals of nature or international conditions. At best the conference can only start the work on the road back to better conditions. It is not going to deal in magic or perform miracles. There will be no easy and spectacular transformation by the mere adoption of attractive formulae. After the conference points out the way and starts the march, there will be a stiff journey, but we can make it cheerfully if we know it leads upward out of the bog to solid ground."

STABLE EXCHANGE VITAL
It was obvious complete or partial solution of the problems on the conference agenda was essential to the recovery of international trade, domestic finance and trade, the president declared. Until, for example, there was devised a stable medium of international exchange, no solution of financial or commercial questions could hope to bring lasting results. To no country was the problem clearer or its solution more vital than to Canada, (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

JOBLESS OUTBREAK IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Canadian Press
St. John's, Nfld., June 6.—Forty policemen were dispatched to Little Catalina today to quell an uprising of unemployed men of the district. Reports from Little Catalina said the men were dissatisfied over a decision they must work for relief and were pillaging stores.

Although the men had quieted down after taking enough provisions for their families, further outbreaks were feared and officials at Little Catalina believed the police should be prepared. It was believed the chief objection at Little Catalina was the distance the men would have to walk to their work. The officials said this difficulty would be adjusted as soon as possible.

POSITIONS FOR
OUSTED JEWSGerman Government Will Put Hebrews at Work Again in Upper Silesia

Associated Press
Geneva, Switzerland, June 6.—A representative of Chancellor Hitler's government pledged his word at a public League of Nations Council meeting today that Germany would give back to Jews the positions they recently lost in German Upper Silesia.

The question of Germany's treatment of the Jews in Upper Silesia was brought before the Council May 20 when Franz Bernheim, a German Jew, presented a petition charging that the barring of German Jews from professions in that area contravened a Polish-German convention guaranteeing certain rights regardless of race or religion.

Recently the German representative declared that if there had been infractions of the convention, he would have been the first to point them out. This could only have been the result of subordinates acting in erroneous conception of the law. He also threw the responsibility for not overlooking the opinion of impartial experts.

When he announced the errors of committee officials in Silesia which constituted a violation of the Polish-German minority treaty would be rectified.

REPORT ADOPTED
With Germany and Italy abstaining, the Council unanimously adopted a report that the boycott of Jewish shops and some laws affecting the status of lawyers, notaries and doctors conflicted with the Polish-German minorities convention.

"Germany's declarations imply," the report continued, "that persons belonging to the minority who lost employment as a result of the boycott should be adjusted as soon as possible."

Vancouver Trustees To Decide Cadet Question

Associated Press
Berlin, June 6.—Prince Shirard Mohamed Asis Khan, Afghan minister to Germany, was shot and killed today by a man who attacked him in his library.

Police arrested Kemal Syed, an Afghan student.

Five shots were fired, one of which entered the prince's lung. He was taken to a hospital and operated on immediately. He died a short time later.

AFGHAN PRINCE SHOT TO DEATH

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 6.—Vancouver's school trustees are once more confronted with the question of the future of school cadet training. Annual reports from J. S. Gordon, superintendent of schools, and W. G. Brandreth, supervisor of physical education and cadet corps, were laid before the management committee of the school board yesterday evening.

So the public might have the opportunity to make representations on the subject should they wish to do so, discussion of the reports was stood over until June 18, when they will be considered at a meeting of the full board.

Mr. Gordon said in his report he was still persuaded cadet work was an agency for good when properly managed, "and that it has never been managed better than at present."

DENTIST USES HYPNOTISM

Associated Press
Swampscott, Mass., June 6.—Dr. Louis Olin of Boston to-day extracted a tooth without causing pain or hemorrhage after a patient had been "suggested" into a state of dreamless sleep.

The dental treatment was performed before 200 dentists and newspapermen in the first public mental anaesthesia clinic in New England under the auspices of the Northeastern Dental Society.

The group watched Dr. Louis A. Hawkes of Pittsburgh "suggest" Carl Carlson, forty, into sleep. When Dr. George Kramer of Malden asked for a more detailed display of the science, Dr. Hawkes called him to the platform and after enlisting his co-operation put him to sleep.

Dr. Kramer said he was satisfied and could remember nothing "I wasn't out long enough to have any dreams," he added.

FELT NO PAIN
Carlson said he had felt no pain during or after the hypnosis.

Dr. Hawkes, who has been experimenting with mental anaesthesia for several years, said he saw no reason why it could not be used on major operations.

"I dislike the word hypnosis," he said. "I prefer to call it anaesthesia."

"I have no power to compel the patient to perform acts obnoxious to him," he said. "If I had, no doctor would think of sending his wife or daughter to me. Sometimes one patient is more difficult than another, but so far I have failed to find a patient who is not susceptible to methods which for many years have been familiar to psychologists."

FARM FUND IS OPERATING

Stabilization Scheme For Exports Launched By Dominion Government

Ottawa, June 6.—The Agriculture Stabilization Fund, announced in the budget speech of the Minister of Finance, has been put into operation under regulations approved by the Governor-in-Council and announced yesterday by Sir George Perley, acting Prime Minister.

Under the plan, exporters of certain Canadian products to the United Kingdom will be paid the difference between the amount of the proceeds of their sales at the current rate of exchange and what would have been realized at a stabilized rate of $4.00.

The list of commodities to which the fund applies is limited to those mentioned in the budget announcement—cattle, meats, poultry, fresh fish, tobacco, cheese, milk products, canned fruits, canned vegetables, maple products, eggs and honey.

In the regulations, these goods are more specifically defined. Except for cattle, poultry or meats, the approved commodities must have been in their primary form, the product of the 1933 crop of producing or fishing season. Only commodities produced and prepared in Canada are eligible.

The fund applies to goods entered for export to the United Kingdom on or after May 1, 1933. The administration will be under the Department of Finance. Applications for payments from the fund will be received by the department from the exporter.

The regulations give power to the minister to remove any commodity from the approved list if it appears, after inquiry, that the advantage of the exchange stabilization is not being reflected in the price received by the primary producer of the product.

FORMER JUDGE, ARGUING, DIES

San Pedro, Calif., June 6.—Henry L. Arnold, seventy-five, retired judge formerly of Kansas City, Mo., dropped dead yesterday during a heated argument over a fence.

Arnold, detective said, accused Mrs. Frances Gardena of building a fence which he claimed was one foot over the property line on a lot belonging to his wife. While the two were arguing heatedly, Miss Betty Gardena, twenty-three, came to her mother's side, picked up a wooden lath, the officers said, and struck Arnold on the head with it.

A moment later Arnold had slumped to the ground, dead.

"He called my mother vile names," Mrs. Gardena told the detectives.

The officers, expressing belief Arnold had died of heart disease, did not hold Mrs. Gardena.

A post mortem examination was ordered to determine the cause of death.

SOVIET SCIENCE BUSY IN PACIFIC

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 6.—Extension of the scientific work of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to the coast of the Pacific was described in a paper by Peter J. Schmidt of the Academy of Sciences of the U.S.S.R. at the Pacific Science Congress yesterday.

The Pacific Scientific Institute of Fisheries, established at Vladivostok, in 1930, was described as "the sole scientific institution of the Far East region studying the whole of the waters of the region and their natural resources," its chief object being to create "a solid scientific basis for the fisheries which are rapidly developing in the last years on the seas, lakes and rivers of the Far East region."

Mr. Schmidt stated that until recently this vast region had attracted little attention by science and the few expeditions, poorly co-ordinated, had yielded results of a fragmentary character.

Studies were proceeding along four main lines: The study of the natural resources in connection with the conditions of environment; study of fishing technique and methods of capture, including fish, seals and algae; study of the technology of the preservation of marine products and study of fisheries economics.

PRAIRIE GAINS ARE REPORTED

M. E. Nichols Says Economic Conditions Are Better Than Last Year

Quebec, June 6.—Canada and the world have emerged from economic tribulation to a period of definite hope arising from the aggressive policies of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the United States and probable results of the approaching World Economic Conference in London, said M. E. Nichols, vice-president and managing director of The Winnipeg Tribune and president of the Canadian Press, in an interview here yesterday.

Sky high tariffs being maintained by most countries at the present time were largely responsible for clogging the machinery of commerce the world over, and it was to be expected saner and more sensible ideas would be one of the first results of the London conference, said Mr. Nichols.

Conditions in western Canada were very satisfactory and generally better than they had been for some time, continued Mr. Nichols. He said the Canadian west had less disorder and fewer demonstrations this year than in any year since the depression began, and that crop conditions were also improved.

It is estimated that only about 3 per cent of possible oil territory in Alberta has been proved or tested thoroughly, although drilling has gone on steadily since 1924 when the first large production was obtained in Turner Valley.

C.P. DIRECTORS ARE IN SESSION

News Service to British West Indies Approved at Quebec Meeting

Canadian Press
Quebec, June 6.—Inauguration of news services to the newspapers of the British West Indies was unanimously approved by directors of the Canadian Press yesterday at a session prior to the annual general meeting of the organization Wednesday. The directors, who met again to-day, discussed details of activities during the last year and plans for the next.

The service to the British West Indies, including Bermuda and British Guiana, marks a broadening of Canadian Press operations which extend from the Dominion from Halifax to Victoria. Not only is world news supplied to the British West Indies under the new arrangement, but news of the islands is interchanged and made available to the Canadian Press at Halifax.

M. E. Nichols of The Winnipeg Tribune, president, acted as chairman of the directors' meeting. Directors in attendance were E. Norman Smith of The Ottawa Journal, honorary president; W. R. Preston of The Brantford Expositor, second vice-president; H. P. Duchemin of The Sydney Post-Record; H. P. Robinson of The Saint John Times-Globe; E. J. Archibald of The Montreal Star; J. A. McNeil of The Montreal Gazette; Oswald Maynard of Montreal La Presse; W. Rupert Davies of The Kingston Whig-Standard; C. O. Knowles of The Toronto Telegram; Arthur Ford of The London Free Press; E. H. MacInch of The Winnipeg Free Press; Thomas Miller of The Moose Jaw Times; John M. Imrie of The Edmonton Journal and B. C. Nicholas of The Victoria Daily Times. J. P. B. Livesey, general manager, also attended.

NORTH POLE IS COMING SOUTH

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 6.—The possibility the distance between Europe and America is changing was discussed yesterday at the Fifth Pacific Science Congress here.

Dr. B. Gutenberg of the California Institute of Technology told of the instability in the structure of earth and in the level of seas and lands under the seas. After his observations had shown, he said, that the North Pole had been moving toward Greenland for the last forty years. In a few years it would be definitely known whether the distance between Europe and America was changing.

As for gradual movements of smaller regions, the best known movements were "the uplift of the Great Lakes region in North America and of Scandinavia," he continued. The records of gauges showed the northern shore of Lake Superior and the eastern shore of Lake Ontario were "moving upward nearly one centimetre per year as compared with the south end of Lake Michigan. A suggestion was these movements and others were very probably "due to forces which tend to restore the isostatic equilibrium, still disturbed since the melting of the large ice caps which covered this region during the Ice Age."

Coasts of oceans were affected. There was, said Dr. Gutenberg, an uplift of a few millimetres a year at some parts of the Pacific coast of Canada, whereas the Atlantic coast of this country seems to be stable now. Geological investigations showed that during recent periods, however, there had been an uplift movement along the Atlantic coast of Canada also.

Canada's forest resources are estimated at 267,733 million cubic feet of standing timber, a total capable of yielding 448,255 million feet board measure of sawn lumber and 1,328,787 thousand cords of pulpwood, ties, poles and other smaller materials.

INQUIRY RECORDS LEFT WITHOUT GUARD

Washington, June 6 (Associated Press).—Records of the United States Senate committee investigating J. P. Morgan and Company were without a government guard to-day for the first time, because of the Justice Department's drive against gold hoarders. The special agent who had been assigned to guard the valuable evidence was withdrawn to aid in the widespread hunt for gold. Protests of the committee were without avail.

The picture above gives a glimpse of the trunk full of records Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, has been using in his questioning of witnesses.

FISH FORETELL EARTHQUAKES

Also Respond to Human Voice, Japanese Scientist Tells Pacific Congress

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 6.—Fish foretell earthquakes and respond to the human voice by coming close to the surface, Dr. Shinkichi Hatai of the Japanese Imperial University informed the Pacific Science Congress here to-day.

Describing an experiment in forecasting quakes by determining the reaction of a catfish to a knock on a table, Dr. Shinkichi said it was concluded catfish became sensitive to a knocking sound seven or eight hours before an earthquake is recorded. The experiment was successful in 80 per cent of the trials.

What sort of disturbance the catfish felt prior to an earthquake was not yet certain, he said, though sudden alteration of the earth current appeared to be at least one of the factors. Ultra-sensitively of the catfish to sound stimulus led experimenters to suspect a peculiar sort of vibration might be produced preliminary to the final occurrence of quakes; but at present there was not enough evidence to support the idea.

Remarkable instances were related to show how sensitive fish are to vibrations not felt by man. Dr. Shinkichi recently visited the coast of Awa, where "tai," rod porgy, are said to respond to the human voice and come up close to the surface. "After different kinds of trials," he reported, "I found these handsome fish are attracted to a boat by such a slight vibration of water as is produced by very slightly handled oars, making their appearance within a few seconds from a habitat which is located nearly forty metres from the boat."

Dr. Hatai argued fish could distinguish between different kinds of vibrations, for instance between that made by a stone thrown into the water and that made by a person walking on shore.

FISH SOUNDS
He said the several species of fish produced distinct sounds either by friction of the fins, grinding of teeth, emitting air through a narrow passage or through specially developed sound producing organs. The sounds were without much doubt concerned with

REFUSES TO MAKE APOLOGY

BEN B. LINDSEY

Associated Press
Denver, Colo., June 6.—Former juvenile judge Ben B. Lindsey yesterday lost his appeal for reinstatement at the bar of Colorado, won a possible re-entry through the door of apology and promptly slammed that door shut in the face of the Colorado supreme court.

With two justices dissenting, the supreme court yesterday ruled Lindsey could not be reinstated until he had apologized for statements concerning the court in a book he wrote after his disbarment. With characteristic decision the fiery "little judge" declared in Los Angeles he would never apologize and charged anew that the disbarment was a greater reflection on the court than on himself.

Lindsey, whose social theories and political practices have kept him in the public eye for more than a quarter of a century, was disbarred in 1929 for accepting $37,500 from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes and her children for his services as a mediator in the controversy over the estate of the late W. E. D. Stokes.

bringing the sexes together in the breeding season as well as, in some species, serving as a warning. "Whatever may be the real purpose of the noises, it is interesting to note such vibrations must be perceptible to other fishes," he said.

During several days prior to the Kwantu earthquake fish refused baited hooks in the entire Sagami Bay, he continued. Similar phenomena were noticed by fishermen in Tango Bay prior to the earthquake which occurred March 7, 1927. Even dead fish were noticed by fishermen. Three days prior to the eruption of Yushuzan on July 25, 1910, numerous less severe earthquakes occurred frequently and at least a week ahead of the eruption the fish in Doya Lake refused baited hooks. Prior to the Tsunami earthquake which destroyed thousands of lives in the northeastern portion of Japan in 1896, eels were half protruded from their holes even in the day time and no deep sea fishes such as codfish or sharks, were caught by set-line. Many mollusks which normally inhabited deeper water had evidently migrated toward shallow water.

A Thousand Yous

WHEN you pick up your newspaper and glance over the advertising you quite unconsciously multiply yourself a thousand times.

In half or three-quarters of an hour you can, figuratively speaking, visit every progressive store in town. You virtually poke your head into every department of every departmental store. You run into the florist's, the confectioner's, the oculist's, the leading groceries, banks, theatres, all the various places that supply the things that make this the twentieth century and life worth living. Here is a greater choice in clothing, food, furniture, books, pictures, musical instruments, travel, entertainment, opportunities for investment, the service of public utility corporations than any monarch of old could command.

It would easily take a thousand years, traveling hard all day, to find out for yourself what the advertisements tell you in a few minutes.

Advertisements deserve your attention. They deserve your confidence. Without advertising, the prices you would have to pay for many of the necessities you now buy for small change would make a dollar look like a snowball on the kitchen range.

LOWER THE TARIFFS AND LET TRADE FLOW

Political leaders in various countries continue to reiterate the obvious truth that unless the delegates to the World Economic Conference agree to co-operate to reduce tariffs all round they will be ignoring one of the shortest and most direct cuts to economic rehabilitation. It is suggested that the representatives of the United States, now nearing British shores, will recommend a flat ten per cent cut, leaving the various nations free to enter into reciprocal arrangements for the adjustment of the tariff—which, of course, is irregular in height—to meet specific circumstances.

Premier Bennett was careful to avoid any announcement of the plan of campaign he and his advisers intend to launch at the London gathering. We may assume by this time, however, that even such an ardent apostle of high tariff protection as the Prime Minister recognizes that the world's business recovery, including Canada's, will be delayed just as long as intense economic nationalism is permitted to prevail. His visit to Washington, of course, and his statement in the House of Commons some weeks ago that his government was ready to discuss a reciprocal trading arrangement with the United States are a hopeful augury for a "new deal" for Canada's sadly shrunken business with her neighbor.

From the more moderate tariff advocates in Great Britain have come frequent declarations that one of the National Government's hopes from its fiscal experiment was that it would help by its operation to persuade other countries to lower their tariffs. It already has produced a small crop of new trade treaties which, while designed to be mutually advantageous to the contracting parties, have added to the existing complicated tariff structures.

Extravagant claims for the benefits which the National Government's tariff policy have conferred upon British trade do not seem to be justified in the light of the latest available Board of Trade figures. These show that in April of this year there was a considerable decline in both imports and exports as compared with March and with the corresponding month of last year.

Total imports were $51,151,000, as compared with $56,346,000 in March and $53,555,000 in April of last year. Exports were valued at $26,395,000, as compared with $32,551,000 in March and $34,782,000 in April, 1932. Figures for the first four months of the year, as compared with last year, are as follows: Imports, $210,072,000 ($246,960,000); exports, $116,115,000 ($127,113,000), and re-exports, $16,142,000 ($20,757,000). The adverse trade balance was $21,218,000, as compared with $19,812,000 in March and $14,132,000 a year ago. For the four months the adverse balance was $77,815,000, compared with $99,090,000 in the previous year.

The foregoing statistics can hardly be taken as a good advertisement for Britain's tariff after more than a year's operation. Nor should it be forgotten that when her external business drops it involves a serious loss in invisible exports—in the sale of shipping and insurance services.

MR. STEVENS AS SUCCESSOR TO DR. TOLMIE?

The arrival on this coast from Ottawa of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in the Bennett government, has given rise to a crop of rumors, two of which are believed in well-informed quarters to possess some foundation in fact.

The announcement that Mr. Stevens will consult here on Saturday with the executive of the British Columbia Conservative Association is taken to mean that one of the chief items of discussion will be the question of whether he would allow himself to be persuaded to take the leadership of the party in succession to Premier Tolmie and go forth into the coming election campaign. Advice from Vancouver suggests that the strongest form of pressure will be brought to bear upon him during the next few days with this object in view. It was natural that he was not prepared to discuss "that situation" when interviewed yesterday. Nor is it surprising that Dr. Tolmie says he does not propose to move out; his cabinet has been reorganized by the ordinary process of portfolio shuffling which resignations necessitated.

Point is lent to the suggestion that Mr. Stevens would like to have a shot at the Premiership of British Columbia because there would seem to be no prospect of his getting a shot at the Premiership of the Dominion in the event of Mr. Bennett's eventual translation to the House of Lords. For it is not rather obvious that if Mr. Bennett had been grooming Mr. Stevens as his successor he would have taken him to the World Economic Conference in order that he might have had an opportunity of displaying his wares. As Minister of Trade and Commerce, he was the logical chief companion for the Prime Minister, and not Mr. Rhodes, the Minister of Finance. But then it must be remembered that Mr. Rhodes has an advantage over Mr. Stevens, for he already has served his apprenticeship as a Prime Minister, having been head of the government of Nova Scotia from 1925 to the summer of 1930.

However, if Mr. Stevens has come west, with the feeling that Mr. Bennett has "let him down," he may not take a great deal of persuading to lead his party in this province if that party is ready to treat Dr. Tolmie—always presuming Dr. Tolmie does not propose to jump overboard of his own volition—as it treated Mr. Bowser at the famous Kamloops convention. But the old Conservative ship has been badly scuttled of late. Mr. Stevens would be risking his political life were he to take the bridge.

WHAT QUEBEC THINKS OF RAILWAY CAMPAIGN

Although it notes that the action of Parliament, in writing into the railway legislation passed at the recent session of a specific clause prohibiting the amalgamation of the Canadian Pacific Railway with the Canadian National Railways, that for the time being the danger of railway monopoly has passed, L'Action Catholique, the well-known Quebec independent daily, warns that the campaign against the C.N.R. by supporters of the C.P.R. will no doubt be waged with unabated determination. This eastern journal is at a loss to understand how it can be argued seriously, as it has been in some quarters, that the difficulties of the C.P.R. are the direct result of the competition of the National line. L'Action Catholique then goes on to say:

"Is it because of the competition of the C.N.R. that the west has not been able to sell its wheat? Is it because of the competition of the C.N.R. that the unemployment crisis has opened the eyes of our rulers and caused them to close the doors to immigration? Is it because of the C.N.R. that certain provinces in the west have practically closed their territories to colonists from the east? Was it the competition of the C.N.R. that led the C.P.R. to build the Empress of Britain, and tunnel under the city of Quebec? The railways, like everybody else, are suffering from the present crisis. And this crisis is not the fault of Tom, Dick or Harry, but of the world economic regime, established on an economic dictatorship."

MEXICO HAS A UNIQUE
PENSION PROBLEM

Canada, Great Britain, and the United States have their pension problems; but it is necessary to look to Mexico for a unique case. We are told that that country's ministry of finance is considering the abolition of the pension which has been paid for four centuries to the descendants of Montezuma, famous emperor of the old Aztec empire; and this bit of news is an interesting footnote to one of history's most romantic chapters.

After Cortez had consolidated the Mexican conquest, the Spanish king granted a perpetual pension to Montezuma's descendants. A number of them later were raised to the nobility; in the late seventeenth century a Mexican viceroy married Montezuma's grand-daughter and assumed the title of "Count of Montezuma." And through all the succeeding years the pension has been paid. When Mexico won her independence, the Mexican government took over the responsibility.

Now Mexico is wondering if this has not gone on long enough; and the interesting thing to most of us is the realization that a living relic of the Aztec empire still survives in modern Mexico.

THE "GLOOMY DEAN" AND THE BARNUM TOUCH

Dean Inge, known all over the world as the "Gloomy Dean," thinks that, "as a great power, England culminated in the nineteenth century," that she "has seen the peak of her power. This may or may not be so; but it is a little reassuring to read that we shall all be rid of our troubles on June 12, for a London businessman is touring the British Isles trying to convince people that the world will come to an end on that day.

This Londoner is said to be spending $5,000 a week on his self-appointed mission. He is, it should be added, a wealthy fellow. He has made hundreds of converts, many of whom are rapidly giving away all they own in order to be ready for the great day.

It might be possible, of course, to read an unpleasant omen into the fact that the date this man has chosen for the end of all things is also the date on which the World Economic Conference will begin its work. If that conference fails, the prophecy might come close to fulfillment. But what of the converts who are giving away all they own? Was Barnum right?

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE AMATEUR GARDENER
The Baltimore Sun

Few persons came in for more alighting, not to say insulting, references than back-yard gardeners. They have become the butt of comic artists, a matter of jest to lazy neighbors and, indeed, the target of so many wisecracks that one wonders at their courage in sticking to the effort to make things grow under conditions which few but the most resolute of men would tackle. Consequently, we are glad for the sake of a much abused body of citizens to note that an authority on agriculture and gardening asserts that there is no more difficult undertaking than that of the back-yard gardener and that, compared with the obstacles to his success, those of the ordinary farmer take a back seat. The man who endeavors to make nature bloom in the rear of his dwelling must know the character of soil, the wisdom of rotating the crops, the proper use of fertilizers, when to plant, how to cultivate intensively and how to ward off the various bugs and pests that lie in wait for the product of his toil and patient care. The scoffers, unfamiliar with the constant perils that assail this avocation, appear to think that gardening consists of sticking things in the ground and reaping the ripened usufruct. But let them scoff. And their ribald estimates of costs be damned. The relish of home-grown stuff cannot be gauged by a balance sheet. All malicious references to devotees of a most fascinating and wholesome occupation should be dismissed with the lofty scorn that they deserve.

A THOUGHT

DELEGATION TO PROTEST LEVY

Restaurant and Hotel Men Interviewing Government Today on Meal Tax

To protest against the Hospitals and Meal Tax, a delegation of hotelmen and restaurant keepers, representing Vancouver and Victoria will meet the provincial government this afternoon in an effort to have the authorities take some action towards shelving the tax, which, it is claimed, has already had a detrimental effect upon Victoria's tourist trade.

If the results of the interview are not satisfactory to the complainants plans will immediately proceed for the circulating of the province with a petition protesting against the levy, which is termed a "nuisance tax."

It is planned to have 10,000 copies of the petition placed in conspicuous positions in hotels and restaurants in British Columbia.

THE CITY LICENSE FEE

To the Editor:—Permit me to call attention to the city license which all business and professional people must pay.

Nothing is given for this payment—neither protection nor anything else. It is merely a hold-up—a racket.

MR. JONES AND THE GARBAGE

To the Editor:—I, as an ungentlemanly native son, am shocked and amazed at the scurrilous, vituperative attack on our fair city and English people by an Aussie.

Mr. T. F. Jones seemingly does not realize we do not judge all our tourists as far as to clean house—does he not realize only dirty places need cleaning.

We hope Mr. Jones will not feel he is misled, and if we need any further advice we will ask for it, not accept that sort of charity from a native of Australia, where plumbing for sanitary conditions is still a mystery.

NATIVE SON,
Victoria, B.C., June 5, 1933.

NELL GLOVER AND THE GAME
DEPARTMENT

To the Editor:—The antics of our game department and its mothball system of defence have been so well advertised by the farmers of Sooke and immortalized by Mrs. Nell Glover in her now famous article about Victoria in The Yorkshire Post that the contribution by Mr. A. Campbell of Sooke in The Daily Colonist of June 2 is not only much too late to serve the "cause celebre," but also quite irrelevant to the complaints about the abuses of the game administration under which his neighbors were suffering.

Mr. Campbell, in defence of the game administration, relates a case which occurred some years ago, when a game warden did not only permit but actually assist a farmer, in saving his turnip crop from destruction by deer.

But Mr. Campbell omits to tell that this very same game warden has been sternly requested to apply for his superannuation, and to make room for two new game wardens, who were not only experts in moths but also political botanists, who could tell a Liberal turnip from a Conservative one. Thus in a year of depression 1932, the game department paid three salaries, where one salary did the work in boom times. This system or "racket" is known in Victoria as "political" economy. Nell Glover calls it "fiddling while Rome is burning," and Nell is dead right.

ANTHONY KOROUT,
Sooke, June 5, 1933.

PRINTSLEY OF YORKSHIRE

To the Editor:—The recent leading article of your able pen suitably answered the contribution to The Yorkshire Post by Mrs. Nell Glover, but one aspect of the case seems to have been entirely overlooked.

In the last few years, all over the world, there has been and still is, tremendous competition among journalists. A great many people who never wrote before are now trying to earn a few dollars by writing. The main thing is to sell the manuscript; the truth is a secondary consideration. Had it not been for Mrs. Glover introducing moths, apple trees, deer, Nero's fiddling, and women's clothing, the article might never have been accepted. Sentence after sentence was written to catch the eye. They have to be striking and arresting.

Third or fourth rate journalists are by no means the only writers who descend to this method. J. B. Priestley, one of England's best authors, in his book "Faraway," lets one of his characters speak of "Zane Grey" (under a different name) as a "boulder." Very bad taste, and a blemish on a good book, but probably written for effect (or jealousy?).

By the way Priestley is also a Yorkshireman. People from Yorkshire have the reputation of being honest and outspoken, but does there not seem to be a slight degree of refinement lacking in the natives of that county?

DOMERDET,

MRS. MCCLUNG REPLIES

To the Editor:—I gather from a letter published by you last Thursday, that at least one of our audience at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Pacific Coast Librarians' Association was displeased with the selection of writers made by Mrs. Jamieson and myself, when we spoke on Canadian poetry and prose.

That our selection is criticized is not to be wondered at, for there is sure to be a difference of opinion on a matter of this kind, but I can not see why the writer of Thursday's letter, who evidently believes himself to be a lover of good literature, should be so offensive about it.

The gentleman in question, whom I have not the pleasure of knowing, seems to be more of a fault-finder than a critic.

There is something pathetic about the eager way he pounced on the fact that by a slip of the tongue, Mrs. Jamieson said Blue Curran was born in Ontario. Now there is nothing libelous in saying a person was born in Ontario, and it did not detract from the beauty of "Canadian" as a title.

The only part of the letter that calls for a reply is the undeserved criticism of Mrs. Jamieson for reading three of her own poems. I take full blame for this, if it is a matter for blame. I urged her to do this for I knew the librarians would like to hear her poems. Many of them asked for copies of them when the meeting was over, and they came to her to express their appreciation.

Edna Jacques did not speak egotistically of her work. Every one who knows her, knows how modest and unassuming she is. She writes out of a full and understanding heart and that is why her message goes straight to the heart. Hardly a day passes without bringing her messages from people who have found comfort and strength in her beautiful verse. It may not be so, as her critic insinuates, but it registers!

NELLIE L. MCCLUNG,
1725 Beach Drive, June 3, 1933.

SAYS MR. JONES IS RIGHT

To the Editor:—Let us drop Nell and forget her. After all it's often been said women don't mean all they say, but rather take into account what Mr. Jones (from somewhere) says about the handling of our garbage. It's the truth, and this matter I brought to the notice of the public during a civic campaign some three years ago, and indeed were it not for the high winds with which Victoria is well blessed, there is no telling what epidemic would afflict us; for we are much for what Mr. Jones says about the beach along Dallas Road. I have seen it strewn with garbage which floated in not more than one-half hour after the snow had dumped its disgusting, germ-laden load. Our city employees, who have the handling of the garbage, no doubt would appreciate a little more instruction on the proper and careful handling of the same, as a result a marked improvement would soon be noticeable, even with our out-of-date "daytime collection."

I am sure Dr. Felton would be only too pleased to be of service to this department by giving a talk about every three months to all employees in connection with the handling of garbage. This instruction would not come amiss. It's a serious matter if the greatest precautions are not taken in this regard. The cheapest way is not always the wisest. Nothing like an incinerator to dispose of garbage, and thus keep our beaches clean as well.

May I say this condition, which Mr. Jones reported in Saturday's Times is just another evidence of the necessity for some women on the City Council.

SLAVES GUARD KING IN TOMB

Skeletons With Spears Found at Entrance to Ancient Crypton Upper Nile

Excavations Throw New Light on Early Christian Civilization in Nubia

Cairo, June 5.—Excavations carried out by the Egyptian Government Department of Antiquities in the Nubian Cemetery at Ballana in Upper Egypt, seven miles south of the Temple of Abu Simbel on the west bank of the Nile, have thrown new light on the early Christian civilization in Nubia. The finds indicate the people of Ballana were in touch with Christian teaching and had partly adopted its symbolism although adhering to savage practices connected with their previous pagan religion and the worshipping of the old gods of ancient Egypt. It is certain they were a savage warlike people with a borrowed surface culture.

Most of the personal possessions, such as pottery, weapons and horse trappings, show a distinct Egyptian-African origin, while the less intimate property, like furniture and metal vessels suggests a Byzantine influence. HAD NO WRITTEN LANGUAGE

Apparently they had no written language for, although there were inscriptions on a spear head and on one pot, no other inscribed material was found. Even the entrance to the tomb bore no trace of an inscription. The excavators hope next season to attack a town site adjacent to the cemetery.

In the hope of finding some inscribed material. In warfare the early dwellers in Ballana used leather armor, bull hide shields, iron spears, javelins and axes and bow and arrow. They may have been the Nobatta, a savage tribe introduced by the Romans from the Kharos oasis about 298 A. D., to colonize the Nile valley from Elephantine southward.

Because of the dampness of the soil, most of the objects found in the tombs are fragile. Materials such as wood and ivory suffered to such an extent that in some cases only the barest traces remain.

Three tombs were found intact. The entrance to one is a ramp on which lay the bones of sacrificed animals. This led into a vaulted room of mud brick built in a pit cut in the alluvial mud. The room contained pottery, numerous bronze vessels, the remains of two wooden chests and an iron folding table. Across the entrance lay the skeleton of a sacrificed cow.

DEAD SLAVES GUARDED MASTER Against the north wall of the room the excavators found bones of two slaves and near by an armory of iron swords, axes and spears. Two large war spears with silver shafts were placed against the door of the burial chamber, showing the slaves were guardians of the door, watching over their master after death as in life.

When the door of the burial chamber was opened the excavators found the bones of the slave's owner, probably a tribal king or prince, lying in a semi-contracted position on the right side with the head southward. Still in position on the skull was a massive silver crown ornamented with figures of the Goddess Isis in relief and set with semi-precious stones. Near by lay silver earrings buried in the soil. In the right hand was an iron sword with a silver hilt and sheath. On the left arm were two heavy silver bangles decorated with lions' heads. On the left wrist was a silver bow guard and on the feet were silver toe rings and anklets decorated with silver disks.

At a side of the burial chamber lay a large spear with a silver hilt and what appeared to be a silver mace head. Pottery vessels containing dates, bread and wine had been placed at the foot of the skeleton. A second vaulted chamber of brick was uncovered on the east side of the entrance chamber, this containing a quantity of imported and local pottery, bronze vessels, lamps and glass. Although the tombs had been plundered the robbery was not very thorough and many objects of considerable importance remained. In one tomb, where the plunderers had not penetrated far into the main chamber, numerous fine bronze and silver objects were found with a small piece of gold foil bearing an inscription invoking the protection of Isis and Osiris.

FINDS AT TELL-EL-AMARNA The Egyptian Exploration Society has just concluded its season's excavations at Tell el-Amarna, a city in Upper Egypt built by Akhenaten in the eighteenth dynasty. Among the most important discoveries were many fine pieces of sculpture, including a head of Akhenaten made of sandstone. The eyelashes and eyebrows are of semi-precious stones. There also was a magnificent sculptor's trial piece showing on one side the head of Queen Nefretete and on the other a kneeling figure. An unfinished sketch of the Queen and a third trial piece showing two royal heads also were found.

In the same area numerous other remarkable works of art were brought to light. A lifesize head of Queen Nefretete in quartzite was found unfinished, but in some respects it is a remarkable portrait. Another artistic piece, exquisitely worked, represented the ape of Thoth crowned with horns and the disk of the moon seated on an altar, while below, inspired by him, squats a scribe busy writing. This area appears to have consisted of studios of a great sculptor.

CHINESE TRIO VARSITY MEN

Nanking Delegates to Science Congress Graduates of Harvard, Yale and Cornell

One Member, Dubious About Use of His Straw Hat, Seeks Advice

Typical of the new China, a trio of scientists delegated to represent the Nanking government at the Pacific Science Congress, reached here yesterday evening by the S.S. President Taft from Shanghai. They are all graduates of occidental universities.

Dr. Cooching Chu, director of the National Research Institute of Meteorology, Nanking, graduated at Harvard University. He was at Harvard in the same year as Dr. T. V. Soong, acting premier and finance minister of China, who recently passed through Victoria on his way to London to attend the Imperial Economic Conference. Dr. D. Y. Lin, director of forestry, Ministry of Industries, Nanking, is a product of Yale University.

T. H. Chen, professor of plant breeding, University of Nanking, attended Cornell University.

WELCOMED BY RADIO Two days ago, as the ship was nearing this port, the Chinese scientists received a radiogram from Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the Pacific Science Congress, welcoming them to Canada. They considered this a cordial gesture and spoke of it appreciatively. "We were unfortunately unable to reach here for the opening of the congress, but we are in time for the technical discussions," said Dr. Chu. In his intention, he said, to present a paper dealing with the circulation of atmosphere over the Pacific ocean.

Dr. Lin and Mr. Chu will give a general summary of developments respectively in forestry and agriculture in China. The Chinese delegates had just been reading details of the $50,000,000 loan by the U.S. Reconstruction Finance Corporation to China, negotiated by Dr. Soong, to enable China to purchase wheat, flour and cotton to that value, and they were asked their views on the new deal.

Guardedly, but smilingly, Dr. Chu countered: "We are scientists, you know. That does not come within our province." Dr. Lin was interested in Victoria and sought information about the city's population. When informed that about 60,000, he displayed considerable surprise. He approached from seaward had given him the impression that the city had a much larger population.

FEARFUL OF SEASON Dr. Lin carried a straw hat and he inquired rather dubiously whether the season had yet arrived here for such headgear. He sought the advice of ship reporters and was informed that other scientists would doubtless be wearing them.

After the science congress concludes its sessions, the Chinese scientists plan to go on to Chicago to inspect the Century of Progress Exposition. They will also attend the conference of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, opening at Chicago June 19.

Dr. Chu and Mr. Shen will later go to Europe, while Dr. Lin will return to China via San Francisco.

PYROL USED IN WINNING CARS

Pyrol was used in the cars winning first, second and fifth place in the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Classic races Memorial Day and one driver, finishing second, made the last twenty laps (fifty miles) with no oil in the crank case at a speed between 101 and 102 miles an hour, thus establishing a new track, mechanical and Pyrol world record.

Louis Meyer, winner, wires: "Won 500-mile race, breaking all records using Pyrol." Gene Hausen wires: "Give Pyrol great credit for motor performance enabling me to finish 500-mile race on limited oil supply allowed." Joe Russo, chief engineer of Henry and Russo Engineering Company, wires: "Only reason I was able to finish 500-mile race on small allotment of oil allowed for race was Pyrol."

Telegraphic advices from Indianapolis say that Wilbur Shaw, driving for Leon Dura, won the race during the twenty laps to finish with no oil in the crank case. His motor had been previously conditioned with Pyrol and he used Pyrol during the race in both gas and oil.

Phil Shafer, finishing fifth and driving a Buick, also used Pyrol as did Joe Russo driving for Fred G. Duesenberg, and Eugene Hausen, finishing among the first ten.

Taylor, president of the Sooke branch, acted as chairman.

GREAT WEST DOES BIGGER BUSINESS

An encouraging sign of increased business activity is reported by C. G. Ferguson, general manager of the Great-West Life Assurance Company. Sales in life insurance by the company for May were 18 per cent greater than for May, 1932, and the greatest since November, 1931. This increase was fairly general throughout the Canadian and United States agencies. Victoria was among the branches which showed a gain in business produced.

X-PRINCE TO WED CUBAN

Eldest Son of Ex-King Alfonso Renouncing Royal Claims on Marriage.

Associated Press
Pontalieu, France, June 6.—When Prince Alfonso, eldest son of the late King Alfonso XIII of Spain, married his Cuban fiancée, Señora Edelmira Sampedro, in Lausanne, he will, in effect, renounce his claims to the Spanish throne.

Official notice of "promising of marriage" was posted in the city hall in Lausanne to-day, and court circles here declared that the prince has not formally renounced his claims, but that he is to marry the Cuban girl without regard to the same thing.

Nor will his father, former King Alfonso XIII, attend the wedding. The king is visiting in Venice, but his spokesman here said "The king is not happy about the marriage and will not go to the wedding." It was understood the prince's mother, Queen Victoria, III, attended.

Friends of the prince said he has declared he would like to have "a little happiness in his life," and that he intended to ease aside all his royal claims and marry for love.

Señora Sampedro is the daughter of a wealthy Cuban merchant now in Lausanne. The notice at the city hall gave her name as Océjio Edelmira Ignacia Sampedro and the prince as Don Alfonso de Crisóstomo Eduardo Francisco Quiroga Carlos Enrique Eugenio Antonio Venancio de Bourbon y Battenberg.

Claims to the Spanish throne probably will devolve on Prince Juan Carlos, third son of Ex-King Alfonso, serving as a naval cadet at a British naval station in Colombo, Ceylon.

S SENTIMENTAL WITH HIS WIFE

Living Berlin Always Holds Her Hand at the Theatre

Beer Gardens Coming Back All Over N.Y. and at Seaside

By PAUL HARRISON
New York, June 6.—Irving Berlin, the famous song writer, is an unabashed sentimentalist—always holds his wife's hand at the theatre . . . Noel Coward is genuinely modest and avoids places and parties where there are people who would like to tell him he's important . . . Tony Balcan, the artist and caricaturist in tin, he lives simply and exactly as he pleases, actually doesn't give a hoot for money, and trades his work for things like groceries and plumbing . . . Count Von Luckner's "By Joe" is the only explosive he's ever uttered since his wife asked him to quit swearing . . . Marquis James, his new biography of Anthony Jackson seems to be as interesting as anything he's ever written . . . Lydia Roberti, who won the Pulitzer Prize in 1930 for her play "The Sign of the Cross," is a devoted mother and a devoted wife . . . Lydia Roberti has glorified the role of stooge and can be just as delightfully mad off-stage as on . . .

BROADWAY AND BEER

There are many who can remember the town when you could buy beer where the New York Times building now stands . . . when a good time was had by all in the Poppy Room of the Hotel Cadillac . . . when the right side of Rector's was reserved for the cognoscenti . . . when George Ade and Booth Tarkington were familiar figures at the Knickerbocker Bar . . . when the Room of the Beaux Arts housed the "Ladies' Bar" . . . when Delmonico's was just off Twenty-sixth Street . . . when there were almost as many beer saloons as there were corners . . . but still were less numerous than speakeasies are to-day . . .

For people who recall those times, it's easy to visualize the Broadway that is to be. For one thing the return of beer will surely bring a revival of the honky-tonks, beer gardens and cabarets where many of to-day's leading performers learned to hold an audience above the clattering of steins and the bustling of waiters.

From such places sprang the aforementioned Irving Berlin, and Van and Schenck, and Jimmy Durante, who now is clowning triumphantly in the newest revues.

While the honky-tonks and the return of the beer gardens will spell opportunity for hundreds of vaudeville artists now "at liberty" and praying for jobs—any kind of jobs—even as singing waiters.

Capitalists already are scouting the older and smaller movie theatres with the idea of leasing chains of them and

Canadianization Work Reviewed at Convention of Federated W.I. in Winnipeg

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, June 6.—Mrs. W. H. T. Peake, immigration and Canadianization convener, reported "no depression" in the last biennial term of her executive work when she made her report to the Federated Women's Institutes' convention here to-day.

"In every province," says Mrs. Peake, who comes from Transcona, Man., "women institute members are making a study of the federal report on immigration and colonization, and the laws regarding immigration, against which Canada's doors are practically closed. From this study they have reached these definite conclusions: That it is fairly to educate boys and girls only to bid them 'goodbye' as they cross the border to seek employment and establish homes; that Canada must strive to find some way to absorb her sons."

PREFER BRITISH-BORN
"They believe that in the future greater care must be taken in the choice of immigrants, that British-born should be given the preference, that never again should people of other lands be given the idea that Canada's wealth is on the surface, ready to be picked up without hard work and many discouragements. Canada will extend the warmest welcome to those to come to her prepared to take their share of sunshine and rain, success, and failure."

Women's institutes have taken a more lively interest in national and international affairs and have appointed time on programmes for the studies of such topics as the "Economic Conference at Ottawa," "Hudson's Bay Railroad," and "League of Nations."

Activities in the preservation of national history and traditions include: Placing markers, tablets and cairns on places where historical events have taken place; collecting old newspapers, pamphlets, photographs and relics of early days, and writing early community history.

"Through the media of the women's institutes," concluded Mrs. Peake, "the intense loneliness and isolation once felt by women in rural communities has been replaced by a sense of friendly interest and neighborhood."

2,307 INSTITUTES
There are 2,307 women's institutes and 275 Saskatchewan homesteaders clubs, with an approximate membership of 100,000, in the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, according to the report of the recording secretary, Mrs. A. H. Rodgers, Port Saskatchewan, Alta., presented at the board meeting of the organization here yesterday evening.

The tremendous growth of the institute idea in England, taken over by Mrs. J. Chambers, Shellbrook, Sask., who stated there are now 5,000 English women's institutes with an approximate membership of 640,000.

BENEVOLENT WORK
Finance, life membership and relief work in the provinces were also topics of discussion. Contributions to benevolent and community activities were stressed from the standpoint of the institute work rather than donation to other organizations which claim the credit. The discussion was led by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. J. Chambers of Shellbrook, Sask.

GREETINGS PRESENTED
Officers and delegates yesterday evening joined members of the advisory board of the Manitoba Women's Institutes in a "get-acquainted" dinner at which greetings were presented by various provincial representatives, who introduced members of their delegations.

These representatives included: Mrs. H. C. McGregor, Penitence, B.C.; Mrs. A. H. Rogers, Port Saskatchewan, Alta.; Mrs. A. J. Chambers, Shellbrook, Sask.; Miss Esther Thompson, Manitoba; Mrs. George Putnam, Toronto, Ont.; Miss Hazel McCain, Quebec; Mrs. Fred T. Fenwick, Millstream, N.B.; Miss Hazel McDougall, Nova Scotia; and Mrs. Wm. Shaw, P.E.I.

Miss Clara L. K. Holmes, president of the Winnipeg branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club, introduced a delegation of members of the press. Mrs. L. C. Duncan, director of home economics of the Manitoba Agricultural College, presided.

remodeling them into beer gardens. Even the old Hippodrome, earliest of the great spectacle theatres, is being considered for such a fate.

SEASIDE GUZZLING
Coney Island, of course, will be the nation's greatest mecca for beer-guzzlers. Open-air restaurants are putting in bars, sure of a foamy-hair sale of shore diners. And fortunes now are being spent in the hurried construction of new honky-tonks . . .

Fellman Brothers, who once conducted the largest Deutscher garden by the sea, announce that they are ready to reopen on twenty-four hours' notice.

A new spot for concertgoers will be the city's flying fields, where thousands of diversion seekers already are ready to demonstrate their willingness to sit on sunny afternoons, hot, parched and dusty, watching the planes cavort about. Clarence Chas. Latta, trans-Atlantic flier who has been identified with numerous promotion stunts in recent years, says he is organizing a corporation to back a mighty beer emporium at Holmes Airport, in Queens, and perhaps at other fields . . .

Some of the old hotels around New York still have their bars; others have been shopping around for new ones . . . The Union League Club will have to buy one too, having overlooked the possibilities of mahogany when it moved into its luxurious new home on Thirty-sixth Street and Madison Avenue.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

Oh, my baby has such a temper! If I don't do something now, he'll grow worse and worse." At this point one visualizes a rather mature child with a bad disposition. But no, the baby, so it happens, is only five months old and is already an emotional problem to his mother.

MISUNDERSTOOD
The tempery baby of five months is in almost every case not only a misunderstood child but a misunderstood mother. A baby has but one way of indicating his distaste for whatever disturbs him. He can only cry. If he is hungry, if his young mother handles him too roughly, if he is bound too tightly in a small crib or carriage or by clothes or covers, he performs must scream until these wrongs are righted. Undoubtedly when he screams his face will grow red and he fulfills, in his mother's eyes, the complete picture of an angry child.

The outburst is to allow a child to be aroused unnecessarily to such a degree of temper. Some red-faced wailing during the day is quite natural and not at all harmful, but long spells of crying indicate something. To ignore them or to encourage them in order to teach baby that crying gets him nowhere is simply cruel and useless and the worst of training.

AROUSING ANGER
A baby need be only a few hours old before deliberate frustration of his free movements will arouse anger. When we are open-minded about crying, we admit that certainly babies do not cry for the pleasure of crying but largely because of some need. A mother need not run the moment baby opens his mouth; or need she worry when he prefaces his bedtime slumbers by some half-hearted wailing, provided he is growing and gaining and healthy. But she should be ready to wonder what is wrong and less inclined to call it an inherited bad disposition when poor baby is trying to tell her that something needs changing badly.

A baby's angry cries too often put the mother on the defensive and make it impossible for her to set out to discover their cause clear-headedly.

Crisp, cool salads add immeasurably to the interest of summer meals and prove beyond question the theory that "the eye does half the eating."

Colorful fruit and vegetable salads provide an effective and inviting means of adding minerals and vitamins to the diet. Hearty salads made of meat, fish or eggs supply protein calories and make an ideal main dish for summer luncheons. Fruit salads may, answer for dessert as well as salad, and are particularly alluring for summer meals.

Of course, there are certain sharp distinctions made in the type of salad chosen for definite purposes. The dinner salad served between the meat course and dessert must be light and well seasoned. The luncheon salad to prepare the way for the dessert and it must provide contrast by texture, flavor and color.

STUDY THE SALAD'S PLACE
In certain meals the salad is of equal importance with another course. In the menu, a Sunday night supper or informal luncheon salad usually shares honors with some other viand. When this is the case, the purpose of the salad is to complement and enhance the other dish.

The double-duty fruit salad can be served in a number of ways. The fruits can be molded in a jelly; frozen in a mayonnaise mixture or used in their natural state cut in neat dice. The dressing is of utmost importance. While it should not be overpoweringly tart, it must be pleasantly piquant. Whipped cream may be added to any fruit salad if desired and needed for additional calories, but it never should be used as the one and only dressing.

There are general directions in making fruit and vegetable salads that are an aid in achieving dainty and delectable effects. Don't combine too many ingredients. Be sure the materials are cut in dice or marbles of uniform size. Guard against crushed materials and mushy texture. Let all salad materials, meats and fish included, stand in a marinade or some well-seasoned dressing on ice for at least thirty minutes before mixing. Then drain and arrange on beds of crisp dry salad plants.

The rules governing the salad plants are iron-clad and must be observed if perfect results are obtained. Salad plants, whether they are the basis of the salad or merely a garnish, must be cold, crisp, dry and meticulously clean. After careful washing use a lettuce basket to swing the leaves dry or put them in a clean towel and gently pat them dry with another fresh towel. This removes the surplus moisture from the leaves and insures against a watery, diluted dressing.

Breakfast: Mixed fruits, cereal, cream, baked French toast, honey, milk, coffee.
Luncheon: Eggs baked in mushroom sauce, salad of fresh tomatoes, pineapple and raisins, bran muffins, milk, tea.
Dinner: Breaded beef cutlets, creamed carrots, stuffed pepper salad, cherry pudding, milk, coffee.

Home Cooking Sale.—St. Alban's Junior W.A. will hold a home cooking stall Saturday morning, commencing at 9.30 o'clock, in Spencer's basement.

SYNTHETIC LIPS NEW BEAUTY FAD

False Fingertails and Noses Shaped to Any Style Presented at Show

Spray Crystallizes Hair; Women Made Taller; Plastic Surgeons Show How

New York, June 6.—Demountable lips, demountable eyelashes, demountable noses, demountable fingernails, ear tacks, muscle oil, artificial eye sparkle and tiny pictures and letters for finger nail decoration were the talk of the four-day convention and exhibition of the International Beauty Show Owners, which opened at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

A spray lotion for crystallizing the hair is the invention of Louis Parne of New York City. After the subject's hair is set in the ordinary way—the trend, this year, is to lift the hair line high on the neck to achieve an illusion of height—the lotion is applied with a hand atomizer. Metallic powder is mixed with the lotion to get the desired color. It comes in silver, gold, pink, green and the natural shades. The crystallization lasts twenty-four hours.

The detachable fingernails were invented by Maxine Burke. They are of a flexible composition, can be shaped and filed like real fingernails, and come in all colors, with perfect half-moons. They are for the typist whose nails are worn down by her work or for the debutante who wants long, perfect nails to match her gown.

A SAUCY NOSE FOR $35
Miss Burke also invented the demountable eyelashes and the demountable nose. She explained them.

"Many women with straight noses, who want that saucy look, sigh for a retroussé nose," she said. "We get a wax impression of the inside of her nose—she can breathe through her mouth, while it is being done—and then make a gold-plated frame that will give the desired shape. We can make almost any kind."

The gold-plated nose shapers sell for around $35 and are made to order, but Miss Burke hopes to put out a standardized edition that will serve all purposes and be available in department stores.

Her removable lips are made of a flexible composition, 1-100,000th of an inch thick, which can be applied over the real lips. They will stand up under "the most severe treatment," according to Miss Burke, and will last about twenty-four hours. They come in different shades and sell at $5.

The ear tacks are flesh-colored contrivances made of court plaster. One end adheres to the back of the ear, the other to the side of the head. The tacks make prominent ears lie down and behave. Face-lifting is accomplished by taking up the slack of loose skin and tacking it down with the invisible composition.

Decorations for fingernails come in letters, pictures and symbols. A favorite eight-finger set spells "I love you." A bridge set provides one spouse one heart and one club for each hand. When it was pointed out that a lady might be tempted to signal to her partner beckoning with, say, the

Miss Gyneth Silver Tells How Cuticura Healed Salt Rheum.

"Salt rheum broke out in the form of a rash behind my ears and around my nose. It itched and burned causing me to scratch. Later it formed little, sore eruptions that scaled over, and water came from them. I tried other remedies but they did not do any good. I had the trouble about two weeks when I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about a month I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Gyneth Silver, R. R. 1, Berwick, Nova Scotia.

spade finger, the beauty expert shrugged. "No lady would think of such a thing," was the retort.

CURLS DONNED WITH HAT
The business woman who feels that she must wear a short bob at the office has been consoled by the beauty experts. They have designed a hat that has a full set of curls attached to the back of it. The curls are made of real hair and the wearer may pick the color to match her own, or any other color she wants.

"This marks the first time in twenty-two years," said the expert, gravely, "that hair has been used as a decorative touch in millinery."

"Miss 1934," the girl who represents the type most women would like to be, will be introduced at the show on the basis of measurements and specifications submitted by more than 35,000 beauty specialists. She will remain in the background until to-night, when she will be presented in public at the convention hall. Her name has been withheld.

But the officials hinted at what the public might expect.

"The trend of women beaming beauty is toward attaining height, or the illusion of height," it was revealed. "The woman of to-morrow will be tall, and that will mean higher coiffures, with the hair well off the neck. We are showing on the floor artificial coronets to help give the impression of greater height. We also have metal coronets for the purpose."

One of the booths showed a paste that can be put in the eye to give an artificial sparkle when exhaustion begins to set in and the party is still going strong.

Six plastic surgeons will transform six plain-faced girls into beauties in full view of show visitors. There will be operations on nose, face, "over-eye" and "under-eye," on ears and for removal of scars.

Haven For Lovers; Police Are Barred
Camden, N.J., June 6.—"Lovers for Lovers" beside the Copper River parkway. A sign on his property reads: "Lovers may park beyond this sign at own risk—police must keep on."

"There's no criminal offence in loving," says Simon. "And lovers ought not to be bothered by police, who should earn their money in some other way."

Excursion to Seattle, Saturday, June 17, Princess Marguerite.
There are twice as many automobile drivers in the United States as there are automobiles.

Views Differ On Choice of Governor
Washington, June 6.—In the first overture of Roosevelt's recommended legislation, the United States House of Representatives yesterday rejected the President's request for authority to appoint a governor of Hawaii from the continental United States, instead of a native of the islands.

One set of people are still living on the fat of the land—the Eskimos. They eat blubber.

Mrs. Hunt says: "Many years of daily testing of the product has convinced me that Magic is the best baking powder for all home-baking purposes."

HERE'S MRS. HUNT'S RECIPE. CAN YOU NAME IT?

Measure 3 cups sifted pastry flour (or 2½ cups bread flour), add 3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder and ¼ teaspoon salt and sift together 3 times. Cream ½ cup butter; gradually add 1½ cups fine sugar, beat until light; add 2 egg yolks one at a time and beat; then add sifted dry ingredients alternately with 1 cup milk. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon almond extract. Mix well. Fold in stiffly beaten whites of 4 eggs. Bake in well-greased 9" layer-cake pans in moderate oven (350° F.) 20-25 min.

FILLING AND ICING

Cream well 4 tablespoons butter. Gradually add 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar. When smooth, put 4 tablespoons of mixture in another bowl and to it add 2 egg yolks slightly beaten and 1 tablespoon cream alternately with 1½ cups confectioners' sugar and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Beat until light and smooth.

To the last mixture add 1½ cups confectioners' sugar with 3 tablespoons cream. Beat until light and smooth. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon almond extract. To ¼ of this mixture add a drop or two of pink fruit coloring or cochineal.

This gives a white, pink and pale yellow which make this delicious cake very attractive. Put some of the yellow mixture between the layers. Cover sides with yellow mixture putting shredded coconut over this. On top of cake, put thick dabs of the 3 colors, and run a four-pronged fork through in circles so that the colors are prettily mixed.

"You two make a pair, all right, you and Max. It seems you both went about Red last night. Why, Max took me home, and since I told him she and I lived together, I suppose he knows. Why shouldn't he?"

"He was too d-d anxious to find out, that's all. He's a bawdy boy. I know one when I see him. How much more did you tell him about her?"

"Why, we talked of little else, dear," said Babe. "He wanted to know all about her, and I tried to be as accommodating-like I am now. Look here, who elected you Red's guardian? I've known her about 700 times as long as you have and I'm not trying to get her in dutch with anybody."

He did not know what to say to that, but the look in his face must have answered for him, for with a complete change of manner, she went on: "What is it, Marty? Is there anything wrong with him? Do you know anything about him?"

"No," he told her, as they entered the building together. "But I think he's up to something queer and I'm going to try to find out what it is. And if you happen on anything that gives you a line on it let me know."

He thought he hesitated as though she had something to say, but all she did was to nod assent and say as she walked off that they would see him for supper to-night about 7 o'clock.

Martin's own day's work was yawning for him in the local room, but he did not go there. He went into the "morgue" instead, on the chance that he would find there some scrap of information about Max Lewis. The search was much better rewarded than he had expected it to be.

Max had had his promenade in the public eye by virtue of a breach of promise suit for $100,000 that had been brought against him by the usual half-dozen imbecile love letters. All that gave them interest, either to the public or to the chorus girl herself, had been the fact that Max, though it was not clear that he had any property of his own, had a vested right, so to speak, in an authentically rich bachelor uncle who might be a good deal down and settle the girl's claim.

The only direct find for Martin in the mess was the uncle's name and address. It was "Charles J. Forster, and he was spoken of as a capitalist with large oil interests in various parts of the country—Charles J. Forster, C. J. Forster."

That practically cleared up, but not quite. Not well enough for Martin, who was a good reporter.

He went downstairs, stopping on the way to check the address of the person whose name was on the slip of paper. X-203 was who's running, this ad?

Snay thought he might do that and went off to look it up, coming back within five minutes with the name written on a slip of paper. X-203 was C. J. Forster, just as Martin had thought he would be. His address was the Worcester Hotel.

The next step would be to interview Mr. Forster and try to persuade him to tell why he was advertising for Rhoda McFarland. This was a step he did not want to take without Rhoda's permission. So he made his way to the local room and went to work for the newspaper.

At 5.30 that night he arrived at the address Rhoda had given him and paused for a survey of the premises from the outside. It was a remodelled dwelling with a converted basement which was now an antique shop, and a first floor, guessing from the sign painted on the glass, that housed a dressmaking establishment. It served some commercial purpose during the day, anyhow, but it was now dark. It must be a rather lonely place at night, he thought.

Something had happened in the studio; at least something had happened to one of its tenants since he had seen them that morning. He sensed it the moment they let him in, and he grew surer he was right as time went on. There was no lack of cordiality about their welcome. They were trying hard he saw, to keep up the festive spirit of a party. They had got up a really good supper—steamed sweetbreads with fried bacon was the foundation of it. The studio was an attractive place to live in, once you had got inside the door, and it was plain the girls were proud of it. But to-night something had gone wrong. It might, of course, be nothing more than some small domestic quarrel that had flared up between them, but it did not seem like that.

All that Rhoda betrayed was a lack of the buoyancy he had felt in her last night and again during their brief encounter this morning. He noted that when he and Babe were keeping things up between them and she went, so to speak, off duty, she seemed to be listless and depressed. As for Babe, she seemed to be bursting with something. She was excited and she was trying to be mysterious.

Martin found himself getting rather imaginative. One minor episode, while they were at supper made him wonder whether he was imagining the whole thing.

The bell rang from downstairs and the rather nondescript visitor whom Babe admitted announced himself as a name-taker for the new city directory. He wanted to get the names and occupations of everybody who lived in the apartment. Babe recited them while he wrote them down in a little leather bound notebook. Then he left Rhoda's name spelled for him.

There was no real reason for doubting that he was what he pretended to be, yet Martin did doubt the man almost to the point of asking him to show his credentials. Also he thought the man turned a rather penetrating look on him, but he didn't want to do something officious every time he was with Rhoda, nor to do anything to-night that would add to her disquiet. It was probably nothing but imagination.

It wasn't, though, imagination that brought about the proposal to the girl. Babe eventually gave that away completely. It transpired that she had a fairly heavy date at nine o'clock and she seemed worried over the idea of leaving Rhoda in order to break this date so that Rhoda, if Martin went home early, should not be alone in the studio.

Rhoda vetoed the proposal with a vigorous shake of her red head and the cloud over Martin's spirits lifted as he realized that she meant to let him stay and have a visit alone with her after Babe had gone.

The last thing Babe did before, in full poncy, she left the studio was to go to her room and bug her. "Don't worry any more about it, precious," she said. "Something nice is going to happen soon that'll make you forget all about it. I've got a hunch about that that's strong enough to bet money on."

Martin bit down the question he wanted to ask the moment Babe had really said something about something about her instead: what a good loyal sort she was.

"Oh, she is!" Rhoda assented with a shaky laugh. "But she's about as easy to see into as a goldfish bowl. She promised she wouldn't let you suspect that anything had happened here, and she's gone off now without the faintest idea that she's given anything away."

Before Martin could think of anything appropriate to say to that, she went on: "I'll tell you what it was: there was a burglar here this afternoon."

"Did he get away with anything—important?"

His choice of that word seemed to strike her, but she didn't comment upon it then. "He got three hundred dollars of mine," she said. She went on in response to Martin's start of astonishment, "I'm ashamed to admit I was so silly as to keep a lot of money like that in cash in my room. I'd had it a long time and I thought it was safe hidden."

Then Uncle Wiggily knew that it was his fast friend, Mr. Twistytail, speaking, and the rabbit was no longer afraid.

"Hello, Twisty!" he called.

"Hello, Wiggily!" grunted the pig as he waddled out of the bushes. "I was going to the store to buy a blue-bell. I'm going to knock it about with my nose."

"Why don't you catch the ball with your paw the same as the boy animals do?" asked the pig.

"Because my wife and Nurse Jane don't want me to," said the rabbit. "They say paw ball would be unattractive. So I must play nose ball."

"How are you going to do it?" Mr. Twistytail wanted to know.

"First of all I'm going to the toy store and buy a ball," said Mr. Longears. "You can't play ball without a ball."

"Very true," grunted the pig gentleman rooting in the ground with his rubbery upper nose to dig up a sweet mushroom he smelled under the leaves.

"Suppose you hop along to the store and buy the ball, Wiggily. I'll wait here for you and when you come back I'll watch you play ball. It will be a funny game, I think," laughed the pig.

"That's the way trained sear in the circus play ball—with their noses," said Mr. Longears.

"So they do! I never thought of that!" grunted the pig gentleman, "I remember having seen circus pictures with the trained seals tossing balls about in a most jolly way. Hop along, Wiggily!"

So Uncle Wiggily hopped along and soon he reached the toy store kept by the jolly old Sea Dog.

"What is he up to now?" Mr. Longears barked the Sea Dog. "Do you want another talking doll for Baby Bunny?"

"I want a ball for myself," said the pig gentleman. "I am going to learn to play ball over again. I used to play when I was a little boy rabbit and now, having seen some of the animal boys play ball and have fun, I want to do it again myself."

"Good for you!" barked the Sea Dog. "Well, here is a ball for you."

He sold Uncle Wiggily a baseball and, right away, then and there in the store, the rabbit gentleman tossed it into the air and when it came down, he jumped up and tried to bat it with his pink nose. He hit the ball all right, but as he did so he gave a loud howl: "Wow!"

"What's the matter?" asked the Sea Dog.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" howled poor Uncle Wiggily. "My nose! My nose!"

"What happened to your nose?" asked the Sea Dog storekeeper.

"The ball was so hard it hurt me!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Oh, I can't play

Uncle Wiggily's Funny Game

By HOWARD H. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along the woodland path as fast as he could hop. There was a bright and shining look on his face and his pink nose was twinkling faster than it had ever before twinkled.

"Stay with me, twinkling nose," said the rabbit gentleman, laughing. "You and I are going to have a lot of fun."

"What kind of fun?" suddenly asked a voice in the bushes, and Uncle Wiggily knew he had been talking out loud to himself.

"Oh! Oh! Oh! My nose!"

SEAWEED EATEN
BY JAPANESE

Children Especially Like It in Expensive Dishes, Science Congress Learns

Vancouver, June 6.—Canadian children dislike spinach but Japanese children eat seaweed—and like it. Used extensively as a food in Japan, seaweed goes into dishes regarded as expensive luxuries and the special delight of children. Dr. K. Okamura of the Imperial Fisheries Institute, Tokyo, said in a paper before the Pacific Science Congress here to-day.

The weed is grown artificially. Dr. Okamura reported, and a glue is manufactured from certain species and used as a substitute for starch in laundering and in the preparation of paper, leather and cellulose. Some of the product is exported to Europe and used for sizing of cloth.

Seaweed is a pure food, the Japanese scientist said, containing certain iodine compounds and providing large amounts of inorganic salts which benefit health.

TEXANS FOIL MEXICAN BANDIT

Back from an adventure in Mexico that included abduction by a bandit leader, Art Hannold and John Rollins, who held the two Americans captive until the Mexican government intervened. Hannold and Rollins were ambushed by Bézaa when the two Texans, from the Big Bend territory, rode into Mexico after horses that had been stolen from Hannold's ranch.

TRADING JUMPS ON STANDARD

Toronto, June 6.—The volume of sales on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange in May were the highest on record since the month of May, 1929, and nearly two and a half times as large as in April. The turnover amounted to 27,321,096 shares, compared with 20,625,950 in May, 1929, and 11,104,177 in the previous month. In the following table are given sales by months this year to date, as compared with the corresponding months in 1929:

	1932	1929
January	3,429,285	18,777,261
February	7,085,871	20,157,268
March	11,231,687	11,921,740
April	4,448,559	11,194,177
May	3,356,475	23,321,096

Equally notable is the increase shown in individual transactions, the number totaling 67,002, or 13,500 higher than the previous high record of February this year. These individual transactions averaged 2,792 a day throughout the month and reached a high one day of 5,875 on May 31. For the same month a year ago transactions totaled 7,928, or an average of 347 a day.

The pronounced increase in the number of individual transactions is attributable to the intense activity in the higher grade producing stocks, in which, naturally, the average number of shares in a single transaction is much smaller than in the non-producing ventures. The leader among the important issues in point of volume, with 739,501 shares and the price advanced thirty-three points, was a stock of a mining company. Since came second, Teck-Hughes third and McEldown fourth. All of the six-teen listed showed net gains, most of them substantial.

From the standpoint of price advance, Dome was outstanding, with a gain of 10.75, while Pioneer moved up 9.00 and Lake Shore 6.00.

Family Doctor Should Check
Home Medicine Cabinet

Regular Cleaning Is Urged; Old Razor Blades Dangerous

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

The wise person will go over the family medicine chest at least once every three months and discard all materials not constantly in use. It is also well to have the family doctor take a look at the materials to offer his advice on those worth keeping and make suggestions as to what is needed.

Unless measures of this kind are taken, the amount of "junk" that accumulates in the average medicine chest becomes something appalling. Just for example, I asked one of my friends to take an inventory on the contents of the medicine chest at his home and his report includes the following:

A bottle containing about one tablespoonful of milk of magnesia, which had been there for more than a year. The remnants of two prescriptions, for an illness long since cured and forgotten. A spoonful of adhesive tape that had dried to the point where it seemed almost ready to crumble, and could be of no possible use. About one teaspoonful of cough mixture, left over from his son's bad cold last winter.

A broken fever thermometer. Several discarded powder puffs. A couple of old safety razors, long since discarded and certainly never to be used again. A roll of gauze bandage, last used when his son cut his hand while ice skating, and which had been stained by some of medicine from an over-turned bottle. A hot water bottle that leaked, which he intended to patch some day—though months have elapsed and he has not patched it yet.

An atomizer that would not work.

A booklet giving directions for physical exercises, which was filed away at the time of its receipt and never opened again. An old medicine dropper, all gummed up with some medicine.

A wire hairbrush, bought originally with an idea of using it regularly each morning to invigorate the scalp by which was put away after having been used for less than a week.

And, of course, his cabinet contained the inevitable supply of old safety razor blades—for nobody ever seems to throw old blades away.

Recently a man in a Chicago hospital was found to have swallowed seven, probably because he could find no other place to put them. There is hardly a home in the country in which someone has not at some time cut his finger on a discarded blade while reaching into the medicine chest for something else.

A good rule is to put the old blade in the package every time a new blade is taken out. Then when the package is filled with old blades the whole can be thrown in the household rubbish.

SPECULATES ON ALEUTS' ORIGIN

Leo Berg of Leningrad Shows Vancouver Congress Print From Late Czar's Palace

Vancouver, June 6.—Origin of the Aleuts is still a mystery. Leo S. Berg of the Academy of Sciences, Leningrad, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, informed the Fifth Pacific Science Congress here to-day, as he offered the theory they came from America. The Aleuts inhabit the Aleutian Islands, which stretch in a semi-circle from a point in southern Alaska nearly to the mainland of Asia. Some of these people are also found on the Alaska peninsula.

From the library of Detokio Selo, formerly the palace of the late Czar of Russia, a print was brought by Mr. Berg to support the contention the inhabitants of the Aleutian Islands are of American origin. The print showed an Aleut from the Shumagin Islands in a baidar with a ceremonial staff in his hands. Among the eastern Asiatic peoples such ceremonial staffs were not used, but were widespread among the North American Indians, Mr. Berg asserted.

NO SWEEPSTAKES WANTED

London, Ont. June 6. (Canadian Press)—Action of the House of Commons in turning down sweepstakes as a means of raising money was highly commended in a resolution passed at the annual London conference of the United Church of Canada here yesterday. A clause including condemnation of lotteries for church purposes was added to the resolution.

SEEK INSURANCE
TERM EXTENSION

Manufacturers Contend Certain Fire Policies Should Cover Three Years

(Canadian Press)

Toronto, June 6.—Efforts of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association insurance committee to secure extension of the term of mercantile and manufacturing fire insurance policies to three years or more were detailed in the report of the committee, under the chairmanship of H. W. Jacques of Montreal, at the annual meeting of the association here to-day. Under existing provincial laws in Canada such policies cannot be written for more than one year.

Fire insurance companies were unanimously opposed to extension of the term, although the Association of Provincial Superintendents of Insurance approved the proposal. Bills providing for an amendment to extend the term were introduced in several legislatures in 1932, but all were rejected. The C.M.A. committee prepared a detailed case for the extension of the term and has again submitted it to the conference of provincial superintendents.

"GUEST HAZARD"

The association also continued its efforts to secure removal from automobile insurance of the separate premium to cover the so-called "guest hazard," on the ground that the present fifty-cent rate to cover this hazard would not begin to meet the loss cost and that there was every prospect of the rate being increased.

Efforts of the fire insurance companies to have the "fraudulently" deleted from Fire Statutory Condition No. 1 were opposed by the association. The effect of this deletion, it was contended by the committee, would be to render a policy null and void if a policyholder failed, even through inadvertence, to disclose some fact material to the risk. The committee reported no change had been made in the wording.

That the various insurance associations had decided not to proceed with the proposal made last November to add two per cent. to insurance premiums in order to recover part of the taxes imposed on insurance by the Dominion and provincial governments was intimated in the report. The matter had been under discussion between the insurance committee and representatives of the insurance associations, the committee emphasizing the difficulty of imposing such a surcharge.

INGENUITY IN TAXATION SEEN

Increased Tax Tendency of Canadian Legislation Noted in Manufacturers' Report

(Canadian Press)

Toronto, June 6.—Dominion and provincial governments are exercising great diligence and ingenuity in exploring new fields for taxation, observed the Canadian Manufacturers' Association legislation committee, reporting to the annual meeting here to-day a total of 1,100 bills introduced in Dominion and provincial legislatures this year to date.

Manifestation of the increased taxation tendency of legislation was to be found in municipal taxation, extension of municipal taxation presented to the several legislatures, said the committee, of which W. S. Morden, K.C., of Toronto, is chairman. On the other hand an amounting sign was that rural and smaller urban councils, which were in close touch with the taxpayers, were addressing themselves to vigorous retrenchment.

NEW COMPANIES

One of the economic developments of the year, noted by this committee, was the decrease in the number and capitalization of charters for new companies, including Dominion and provincial governments during 1932. The number of charters was 3,104, a decrease of more than 800 from the previous year, while authorized capital was down from $529,423,785 to $309,354,250.

Progress was reported in the association's effort to secure an improvement in existing governmental regulations relative to government contracts and the bonding of government contractors. It was pointed out the provisions of mechanical law conditions in government contracts do not apply to government contractors. In the case of a contractor or sub-contractor becoming bankrupt, the suppliers of materials are without the protection they enjoy in the case of non-government contracts. The committee was able to state that as a result of its negotiations there had been an improvement in conditions, so far as Dominion government contracts were concerned, and steps were now being taken to that end in the provincial sphere.

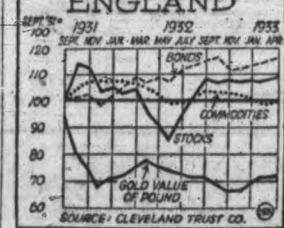

GEOLOGIST TELLS

Member of Geological Survey of Canada Discusses B.C. Base Metal Prospects

(Canadian Press)

Vancouver, June 6.—Significance of the Cordilleran region in Canada's base metal mining industry was emphasized yesterday in a paper by Dr. F. J. Alcock of the Geological Survey of Canada. Return of better prices for lead and zinc, he declared, would result in mines now closed resuming production and the development of properties in the region.

Dr. Alcock told of the first discovery of lead in Canada in the Kootenay Lake district by Indians and trappers more than 100 years ago and the gradual development of the area, which includes the Alouette, Egeon and Lardeau districts during the last forty years as a producer of silver-lead-zinc ores. During the period some 275 properties had at some time or other been shipped ore. Within a radius of three miles of Sandon six properties had each produced ore values of $1,000,000 and the aggregate of forty-five properties had exceeded $28,000,000.

ing of lead and zinc ores in both British Columbia and the Yukon at a low ebb to-day, he declared several properties would go into production with a slight improvement in metal prices. One he mentioned was the Monarch, three miles east of Field, which was located in 1835, one of the first mines to be opened in British Columbia.

Another property awaiting higher zinc prices, Dr. Alcock said, was the Reeves-McDonald, on the Pend d'Oreille river near the international boundary. The Sullivan mine, he said, could considerably increase its output at any time, while the return to more normal prices for zinc, lead and silver would again lead to the development of numerous small deposits scattered widely throughout the region.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Paul Porcasi has been an Italian cabaret owner, headwaiter, maître d'hôtel and so on for so many times that he cannot begin to count them. He began in his memorable performance in the original stage version of "Broadway." More recently, he appears, with Ronald Colman in "Cynara," again as a headwaiter, this time at a little Italian restaurant in London's Soho.

But in the Eddie Cantor screen musical comedy, "The Kid From Spain," now being shown at the Columbia Theatre, Porcasi is a new kind of role. He is a Mexican emigration inspector.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Unusual ability, rare blond beauty and an apparently limitless capacity for work are behind the triumphs of Anita Louise, playing Constance Bennett's sister in "Our Betters." RKO-Radio's adaptation of W. Somerset Maugham's play and showing to-day at the Capitol Theatre.

In addition to singing, Anita Louise has become a singer, an accomplished musician, playing both piano and harp, an excellent ballet and acrobatic dancer, and a skilful fencer.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Imagine the embarrassment of a Hollywood cowboy summoned to work in the carnival sequence of "Face in the Sky," when he was assigned to spend the entire day riding a wooden horse on a merry-go-round. Spencer Tracy, Marian Nixon and Stuart Erwin have the leading roles in this unusual Fox Film's romance of a traveling sign painter, directed by Harry Lachman from the story by Myles Connolly. "Face in the Sky" is now at the Playhouse Theatre.

DOMINION THEATRE

It is seldom that portrait artists are criticized for painting too fine a likeness of their subjects, but Hector Serbaroff was for a painting of Betty Davis which was used in the George Arliss picture, "The Working Man," now showing at the Dominion Theatre. He was instructed to make the likeness something like Miss Davis as it was to represent her mother, but the painting came out exactly like her.

C. Stickley Shows Films of Chicago Exposition Buildings to Kiwanians

An opportunity of witnessing the great amount of work entailed in preparing for the Century of Exposition was offered to members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day by A. C. Stickley, local agent of the Northern Pacific Railway, who presented a film of the buildings presented, showing the scenic beauty offered on the train journey from the coast inland. The pictures were shown by Douglas Flintoff.

The scenic film included views of the many tourist attractions in the Cascade Mountains and North Dakota. Views of Mount Rainier, Mount Hood, Mount Baker and Yellowstone Park were shown.

Among the buildings which depict the latest in ultra-modern architecture are: Hall of Science, Carlton Tower, Imperial Court, General Exhibition Building, Chrysler Building, three miles of exhibition buildings on the shores of Lake Michigan, General Motors Building, administrative building, travel and transport building, the Lincoln group, the electrical group on northern island, the hall of states and federal building, agricultural building, home and industrial arts exhibit, and the Soldier Temple of Jehol, which was brought from China in 28,000 pieces. A note of thanks was moved by J. Clearhouse, president, of Mr. Stickley and Mr. Flintoff.

Brilliant Pianiste To Play Friday

A Victoria pianiste who has won acclaim from some of the most noted cities in Europe, where she has been studying for the past three years, will appear in recital at the Empress Hotel in Friday evening. This gifted young artist is Marguerite Devlin, and the advance sale of tickets indicates the high interest in her re-appearance on the local platform.

Of her farewell recital at the Salle Chopin, in Paris, J. Berthel, noted arisocratic critic, wrote: "Marguerite Devlin was one of the participants at the interesting concert given at the Salle Chopin. She revealed the most and at the same time, the most brilliant of qualities of the pianist: also musical temperament full of understanding, sensibility and finesse. Marguerite Devlin studied in Brussels under Arthur de Greef, and in Paris at the Ecole Normale de Musique, and a pupil of Lazare Levy. This young Canadian artist has a virtuosity full of charm, and plays with great expression, and I predict a brilliant future for her."

Will Hold Annual Official Inspection To-morrow Evening

An official welcome to Admiral W. O. Story, inspector in charge of Canadian sea cadets, and Mrs. Story of Ottawa, was extended to-day by the Victoria and Island branch of the Navy League at a luncheon at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the Hudson's Bay private dining-room.

The room was gay with flags and pennants behind the head tables, and the tables were attractive with their garden flowers in Navy League colors.

Commander C. H. R. Slingsby, R.N., in the unavoidable absence, through illness, of Commodore F. A. Lindsay, president of the local branch, extended a hearty welcome to Admiral and Mrs. Story on the occasion of their annual visit to Victoria. He assured the visiting admiral that the local branch was doing its best, despite a drop in membership, to give the sea cadets, however, had made good progress during the year.

Commander Slingsby said, and he hoped Admiral Story would find them up to standard at the official inspection to-morrow evening. The admiral, in replying, Admiral Story gave a brief resume of sea cadet affairs in Canada and said they were generally satisfactory. He thanked the local branch of the league for the warm welcome always extended to him and Mrs. Story.

"TORCHY" PEDEN TO SHOW SPEED

Lew Rush, "Polly" Parrott and "Stonewall" Jackson Will Also Take Part

Featured by an exhibition to be given by Victoria's four professional bike riders, who during the last two years have made a name for themselves in the realms of sport, the eleventh annual Colonist bicycle road race will be staged on Friday evening over an eight and a half mile course, starting from the corner of King's Road and Quadra Street and continuing via Hillside Avenue and Douglas Street to Glenford Avenue, from there to the Saanich Health Centre and returning to the starting point by Saanich Road and Quadra Street.

The outstanding attraction will be the exhibition by William "Torchy" Peden, Lew Rush, "Stonewall" Jackson and "Polly" Parrott, all of whom have made a name for themselves in the realms of sport, the eleventh annual Colonist bicycle road race will be staged on Friday evening over an eight and a half mile course, starting from the corner of King's Road and Quadra Street and continuing via Hillside Avenue and Douglas Street to Glenford Avenue, from there to the Saanich Health Centre and returning to the starting point by Saanich Road and Quadra Street.

The classes for the race follow: Class A riders over the age of sixteen using racing bicycles; class B riders over the age of sixteen using bicycles with tires not less than 1 1/4 inch; class C riders under the age of sixteen; class D riders under the age of fourteen; class E riders under the age of thirteen.

COMING FROM MAINLAND A strong contingent of Vancouver riders is expected to take part, including Morris Robinson, whose brilliant performance under serious handicap won him considerable praise during the Good Friday race at Beacon Hill.

Lew Rush was last year's senior winner, and will not be officially taking part this year. Roy Timberlake, winner of the class D ride last year, will compete in a higher class. He was also last year's winner of the Victoria Cycling Club Cup for making the best time in classes C, D and E.

ENTRIES CLOSE TO-NIGHT Entries are now being received by Alex T. Stewart, and will close to-night at 6 o'clock. Forms may be obtained from Mr. Stewart or from any bicycle dealers in the city or province.

Another interesting feature of the race will be the re-entrance of Charles Staples, popular local rider, who, for several years, competed here against "Torchy" Peden. Charles first rode in a Colonist race in 1923, when he won the cup. He won it for a second time in 1925, but for the last several years had given the game up, although always taking an active interest in it.

SOCIETY GIRLS OUT FOR DANCES

Taxi Girls Brought in For Big Charity Affair

Stage Stars Unselfish in Giving Time and Talents

New York (by mail).—The happiness of stage stars in unselfishly and unstintingly giving their services for benefits somehow gets you. Over at the Waldorf Astor, groups have been meeting every afternoon in Cobina Wright's apartment, planning a Society Circus for the benefit of the Boy Scouts.

Fannie Brice earnestly pled for someone to pose for a swell, sword-thrusting act as she is working up. "Honey, I won't hit you," she insisted. "Ed Wynn and pugilist little Ona Munson were getting up an entirely new act, not satisfied to contribute something they already know."

Eddie Garr, dropping in after a matinee of "Strike Me Pink," reported that he is getting up some new impersonations. "Hope Williams, Lupe Velez and Jimmie Durante were having a slight disagreement over just how they were to do their mutual stunt."

Trim, vivacious little brunette Dorothy Fields disclosed that Weber and Fields were to be counted on for a three-minute act. "A cable from Beatrice Lillie assured Mrs. Wright that she would be back in time to roller skate or sing."

"Uncle Bob" Siegel insisted that no circus could be a circus without a calypso. "I'll bring one, you can see it on my count on me, Cobina," he said.

John "Rye" Ryland was making lots of young society men to get for his "gigolo dance halls" that will occupy one room.

"Are you using society girls for your taxi dancers?" he was asked. "Not for your life," he said. "I want the girls good looking and swell dancers. I'm getting them right out of taxi dance halls!"

FAIRFIELD TO TACKLE BAYS

Leaders and Bottom Team in Wednesday Cricket League Meet To-morrow

Fairfield, undefeated leaders of the Wednesday Cricket League, will stack up against the Hudson's Bay, occupants of the cellar berth to-morrow afternoon at the Beacon Hill grounds. In the second match Victoria and Five C's will clash at Work Point. Both fixtures will commence at 2.30 o'clock.

With two victories in as many matches, the Fairfield club got away to a good start. The Bays have dropped their first two games, but are hoping to take a fall out of the leaders.

The Five C's and Victoria are tied second place, each with a win and a loss. The club winning to-morrow will thus go into second place.

Edmonton Grads Are Faced With Great Struggle

Prairie Girls Must Win Three Straight Games to Hold World Hoop Crown

Beaten Again By Durant Quintette

Playing Under Women's Rules Percy Page's Club Snowed Under 83 to 48

Edmonton, June 6.—Most persistent winners of any champions in sport during the last decade, Edmonton's Commercial Grads were about ready to-day to join the growing group of title-holders already dethroned in 1933.

The famous basketball team of Percy Page, after years of campaigning where defeats were few and widely scattered, is in such a tough spot that there does not seem any way out.

Newly-crowned champions of United States, the Durant, Okla. girls' team whipped the Grads yesterday evening 83 to 48. They took the first contest under men's rules 50 to 52 Saturday night.

Shooting for a trip to the London Women's Olympic games next year the Oklahoma overhauled Grads yesterday evening under girls' rules in a style of play to which the Page-coached girls are total strangers. With the forwards confined to one half of the floor and the guards to the other, Edmonton's champions were bewildered as the Durant girls went to work.

Only by winning three straight games can Grads save the world title they have claimed and defended from all-comers for many years. They are confident they can prolong the series by winning the third game here Wednesday night to be played under men's rules.

It was a hard-fought, bitterly-contested match, Grads went into the lead shortly after the game started, when they were out in front by a score of 3 to 0. Then the mighty sharpshooters of the invaders, with everything in their favor, they usually play under girls' rules, steadily overhauled the Grads and when the first period ended the Grads were down 27 to 12.

Forging ahead, the Oklahoma team shot to the front with an overwhelming stream of field goals which left the Grads eighteen points down at the second period ending 40 to 28 for the invaders.

It was the third period that the Oklahoma girls took advantage of every break. In this period the Edmonton girls were snowed under by a shower of baskets that left the big crowd gasping as Oklahoma shot further into the lead. The third period finished 72 to 42 in favor of the visitors.

NEVER QUIT

In the last ten minutes there was nothing much the Grads could do to overcome the tremendous lead piled up by the visitors. They never quit once, however, fighting on to the bitter end.

The teams and individual scores follow:

Durant—Worley, 30; V. Dunford, 2; Thurman, 36; Fields, Lamson, L. Dunford, Lassiter, 15.

Edmonton—Belanger, 18; McBurney, 30; MacDonald, 10; Fry, Neale, Stone, Coulson, Innes, E. Stone, Munton.

Officials—Herman Smith, Ponca, Okla.; George Parney, Edmonton.

T. A. HAVEMEYER WINS GOLF TITLE

Duncan, June 6.—T. A. Havemeyer won the men's championship of the Cowichan Golf Club on Sunday by defeating J. A. Prevost in the final, 5 and 4.

A new life-saving class was formed at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday evening, under the direction of James P. Brown. The class consists of seven members and Mr. Brown, who is a "veteran" of many years' standing. The class will meet every Monday evening. The members are Chris McRae, Don Davidson, Gordon Taylor, Stan Lawrence, Bob Blair, Frank White and Bill Berryman.

NAME WHIPPET CLUB OFFICERS

STRETCH DUEL THRILLS FANS

Fair Allan and The Lone Trail in Great Ding-dong Finish at Colwood

Chidney Rides Three Winners; Hub Petty Returns Top Price of Day

In a nose-and-nose duel all the way up the stretch, Mrs. Johnston's Fair Allan and Mrs. "Copenhaver's" The Lone Trail provided the biggest thrill of yesterday's racing card at Colwood track and brought the small crowd to its feet with a roar as they shot past the wire with Fair Allan getting the closest of calls on the outside.

Fair Allan was an odds-on favorite, so his win was popular. Herbie Cox, who rode the winner, seemed to lift him across the wire, for The Lone Trail's nose showed in front less than 100 feet from home. It was the last race on the card.

The other feature of the day was the riding of Chidney, the leading jockey of the season to date. After missing by half a length with Rosamond in the first, he piloted home the next three winners in a row, Verna Loan, Miss Zephia and Catterick. Out of the money with Maghera in the fifth, he came right back to shove Macusha II in the show slot for the sixth.

White, Jackson, Strank and Cox rode the other winners of the day. Jackson was up on Claramonde Hope, an even-money favorite in the first, and booted her hard to get the call. Rosamond was second with Peliska third.

SMART FINISH

Verna Loan took a close call in the second from Dale Showers, which finished with a fast rush. Tuscaloosa, the pace-maker, lasted for the show.

Miss Zephia, starting at three to one, took an early lead in the five-furlong sprint for the third and held on gamely when challenged by Sally coming up the stretch, getting the decision by about a length. Chatterbox finished fourth.

GABERDINE WINS

Gaberidine won the major share of the pot for Jimmy Audain in the fourth, being never in danger, although Jimmie Trins made a spirited bid in the stretch but could do no more than place. Blue Midway finished rapidly for the show.

Hub Petty paid $11.75, the longest straight price of the day, for defeating the favorite, Shortway, by half a length despite going wide at the head of the stretch. Paved Way was third.

May Upset repeated her performance of Saturday by whipping Silk Train in the sixth, but this time was installed an odds-on favorite. Silk Train again ran second and Macusha II copped the show.

Wheat Breaks Near Close and Futures Decline One Cent

Winnipeg, June 6.—Breaking sharply in the closing minutes as a wave of selling, the first of the day, broke over the pit, wheat futures prices skidded as much as one cent on the Winnipeg Grain Market to-day.

The sudden outbreak of offerings entered a nearly deserted pit in the closing flurry and, before support was available to stem the downturn, values had receded  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 1 cent, under the previous finish, July future closing at 62 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, October at 64 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢, and December at 66 cents.

Earlier, however, the session had been dull and uninteresting. Futures had moved almost slightly through out and many traders, losing interest in the market, had left the pit. Narrow fluctuations amid quiet trading again prevailed in to-day's session. Continued absence of foreign buyers was reflected in the lack of interest displayed in futures.

THE HOUSE OF MORGAN

BEARISH MART AT MONTREAL

TORONTO MINE PACE SLOWER

Montreal, June 6.—After displaying a mild rallying tendency in the middle of the session, the Montreal Stock Exchange prices sold off in the last hour. Some of the pivotal shares recorded sharp losses at the close. Trading was fairly brisk on the selling.

Consolidated Smelters was the feature of the declining issues. It sold down to 125 and then climbed to 126, where it was off six points from yesterday's closing level. Canadian Traction lost  $\frac{1}{2}$  at 14 $\frac{1}{2}$ , while Montreal Power, International Nickel and Canadian Pacific Railway were also off fractions.

Futures were given a half-cent dip at the start, reacting to upticks at Chicago, but this flurry soon died away. Most of the day values hovered within a fraction either way of the previous close.

Reports of disastrous crop damage in winter-wheat territory of the United States, resulting in upwings in the Chicago Exchange, were not reflected here. Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma were said to be suffering from extremely high temperatures and heavy losses were anticipated in private estimates.

Cash grain trading again was quiet with offerings scarce. Spreads were fractionally better on higher grades of wheat but others were unchanged. Rye featured coarse grains, dipping more than a cent at one time. Other futures were dull.

Cash wheat and coarse grains were little changed.

INTERLISTED GROUP SLIPS

Toronto, June 6.—Stocks weakened sharply on the Toronto Stock Exchange this afternoon co-incidentally with a sell-off on the New York market. Nickel slumped to $17, smelters to $128.

The whole interlisted group slipped back, though selling was not of a pressing nature. C.P.R. dropped a point. Canadian National and Canadian Pacific were off  $\frac{1}{2}$  point each.

In the loss of about half point were general and distillery and beer stocks followed the trend into lower grounds. Walkers common shipped to 17, off 1.

Utilities were strong all day until the last hour, but the leaders of the group closed with small gains intact. Heavy industrials did well in the morning session, but the best quotations were shaded in the last few minutes.

n't Try to Step Out With Your Philandering Husband, Reader Urges Middle-aged Wives—Shall High School Boy Let Girl Rush Him Into Marriage?

MISS DIX—There are so many middle-aged women with husbands who philander. The usual advice given to the woman is to step out on her own. But that is easier said than done. The man goes home and is surrounded by women who flatter him, his hand, and are glad to dance with him. But the young men do hang around the middle-aged woman. She simply decorates the wall, suggestion is that the wife find her own interests and amusements, a bridge club, make her home attractive, keep in touch with friends, go into church work or work, make a life of her own. She can overcome jealousy by accepting, not following in the line of jealousy. I.H.

Answer: These are words of wisdom which every woman who is lucky enough to have a husband with a wandering foot should cut out and paste upon her mirror where she will see it every time she puts on her complexion and tries to understand a flapper.

For, after all, and no matter how much we may kid ourselves, there is no way in which a middle-aged wife can really keep up with a husband who roams away from his own fireside. She may tag along when he goes out to dissipate himself among the young, but she is always an outsider. She does not belong, and they do not take her in and make much of her as they do of him.

The prettiest young girls will make eyes and flirt with a bald, bay-windowed old man. They will flatter him, cajole him and dance with him, but no young man, unless he is a specifically hired gigolo, will ask a fat, grizzled old woman to tread a measure with him. Nor will any youth, not even those ungrateful lads whom a woman has fed and week-ended and entertained times without number, ever feel called upon to marry her by paying her a few compliments and a little attention.

So that's that, and middle-aged women would save themselves a lot of worry and anxiety and boredom if they would only just accept the fact that, as my correspondent suggests, turn their attention to more profitable endeavor than trying to keep step with hubby when his path is not their path. For, after all, the world is so full of a number of things besides men for women. Especially after they are middle-aged. By the time the fires of romance have burned down to embers and they would be content to bank them and sit comfortably by, cheered by their faith, and refraining from wearing themselves out in the futile labor trying to fan them into a flame again.

It always seems to me that the greatest mistake that women make is in trying to live their whole lives in the lives of their husbands and children. For this cannot be done and in the end it always leaves them bankrupt in happiness. It is a common thing to see a bright, intelligent, well-educated woman sink herself completely in marriage. Before marriage she had a thousand interests. After marriage she has none except in her husband and children and home. She never has thought nor an idea nor an interest that is not centered in them. She gives up her friends. She never touches the piano. She gives up her singing or her painting or her acting for which she had such a pretty talent. She has not time for clubs. She gets out of touch with her day.

Perhaps the husband grows tired of her because she has become nothing but a rubber stamp, and he goes off in search of more entertaining society. Perhaps he is one of the men who is just constitutionally a woman chaser. Anyway, she loses him and she is left desolate because she has no resources left herself, no interests, no contacts, no friends, nothing to which to turn for solace and diversion.

Certainly and inevitably the woman who has lived only in her children is bound to lose out because children grow up and marry and go about the business of life for themselves. Then, if mother has burned all of her ships behind her, she is absolutely stranded on the rocky and barren shores of boredom. For she has no interest in life, except in them, and they have sailed away and left her.

I believe that every woman should live with the thought in mind that the day she will be left alone, and she should cultivate interests and fade of people so that when her husband and children are gone she may still have something left that will make life worth living.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a high school boy, will graduate in June. My college career has been planned by my father, who expects me to be a lawyer. I have been going with a girl, whom I like a great deal and who has got me all excited and in a flutter. I was an honor student, but see I met her high school grades have declined like a business chart in Wall Street. We are planning to get married, but this will spoil the plan which my father has made for me. It is the girl's idea that we should get married without waiting. It all seems like a dream, yet I think that she is sincere. What should I do? RONALD.

Answer: Wake up from your dream and try to realize that you are two children who are playing with dynamite. Don't wreck a promising life by letting a little flame of passion blow your every chance of happiness and success to Kingdom Come.

Can't you realize that you are an adolescent boy in whom the sex instinct just awakening and that the girl in the world can't see an grown and wander what on earth you saw in her that made you think you admired her. Look about you at all the clever and attractive men with dull, stupid wives and you will find that nearly every one of them married when they were very young.

Your tastes and judgment are still unformed, and if you marry this girl now you will be tired to death of her before you are grown and wonder what on earth you saw in her that made you think you admired her. Look about you at all the clever and attractive men with dull, stupid wives and you will find that nearly every one of them married when they were very young.

There is no truer saying than that "a young man married is a young man married," for marriage lays burdens on young shoulders that they are too weak to carry. It blocks the doors of ambition for them. A single young man can go places where married men cannot go. He can save money at married men cannot save. He can take chances that the men with milks dependent upon them do not dare to risk.

Consider the difference in your prospects of success in life that this marriage, if you are foolish enough to make it, will make. If you stay single, you have the benefit of a college education, a fine profession and the opportunities it offers you. If you marry, you must take a small job and be tied to it, with little chance ever to get ahead in the world.

And think, also, of the injustice you will do your father, because at your age you cannot possibly support a family, and as he cannot see you, he will have to take care of you and your wife.

Don't let any girl rush you into a marriage that you will spend the remainder of your life regretting. DOROTHY DIX.

Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 7, 1933

Adverse planetary aspects are strong in the horoscope for to-day, according to astrologers. It is a time to conserve energy and to make plans. In the morning hours it is well to attend to business and financial matters. In the afternoon, sound foundations for business transactions should be secured, since important opportunities are to be tendered. The planetary government is favorable to journalism and the newspaper. Information regarding foreign affairs that will be fortunate for the United States, the astrologers say. There is not a particularly favorable day for the stock market, but there is to be general progress and prosperity. It is forecasted. There is a sign that encourages secrecy in the financial markets. The effects of the financial crisis are well as well as foreign debt problems. Adverse planetary influences may be strong in Rome, Vienna and Paris all through this month, astrologers forecast. Mars and Jupiter in conjunction may cause delays in international agreements concerning armaments and debt adjustments.

At this time, strong pressure toward the strengthening of internal rather than international matters may be apparent at Washington. A number of extraordinary government funds is being appropriated before the end of the summer. Some sort of disclosure affecting extravagance of disbursements in the government is being investigated before the end of the summer. Several proposals have been rejected, according to a government announcement. The stand of the government is that promoters of sweepstakes must deal directly with the Lotteries Licensing Board.

CROSSING IS TURNED DOWN

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, June 6.—Nanaimo, City Council yesterday evening was notified by the Board of Railway Commissioners that its application for leave to construct a highway railway crossing at Machleary Street was refused. The council will meet the Yacht Club to make arrangements for entertaining 300 people expected on the completion of the cruiser-yacht competition, July 22.

A communication from Col. Dennis, special commissioner, dealing with the basis of single homeless relief men received criticism from members of the council. Col. Dennis stated that the federal government allowance is 40 cents per day to cover food and clothing. He intimated many men were being paid 40 cents, not making allowance for rent, and suggested the rent allowance be paid direct by the city to persons providing lodging accommodation. The finance committee recommended grants of $50 be made to the nursing council and $100 to the Salvation Army for social welfare work. Commencing June 15 the City Hall staff hours will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mrs. C. Brown of Victoria held the winning ticket for the Vancouver Island grand national steeplechase, run at Nanaimo races, June 3. E. J. Bird was monthly medalist at the local golf links Sunday, with 61. P. Galbraith second, with 63.

Arrange Tours
To California

Victorians contemplating vacations in Southern California this season will be able to arrange to join specially-conducted tour parties before they sail, it was learned here this morning.

In this way travelers will not have to worry over hotels, meals and sightseeing in Los Angeles. This will all be arranged for them.

This new service will commence with the sailing of the Ss. Ruth Alexander from Victoria Saturday, June 17, at midnight. Passengers will be away from Victoria twelve days, with three days ashore in Los Angeles. The tour company will arrange to have passengers transported from the ship at Wilmington to the Alexandria Hotel, in the heart of Los Angeles. Sight-seeing trips each day will be provided.

A fourteen-day tour is also being arranged, with four days in Los Angeles, including a trip to Catalina Island, with lunch at the beautiful St. Catherine Hotel and a trip in the glass-bottom boat over the marine gardens at Avalon.

The Southland Tours, in charge of K. C. Jones, is making these plans for the month of June, 1933, as follows:

Pacific Shipper Expected Here Thursday With Passengers From England

Favorable weather on the ship lanes of the North Pacific enabled two transpacific liners, the President Taft, which was here yesterday evening, and the Hikawa Maru, which was at William Head Sunday afternoon, to make exceptionally good time and clip several hours off their schedules.

Capt. M. M. Jensen, master of the President Taft, brought his ship into the William Head quarantine station at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and alongside, the Rithet piers an hour and a half later. The big liner had 450 tons of general cargo on board.

Three first class and a number of Oriental steerage passengers disembarked and proceeded to Vancouver by the midnight steamer. At 1:30 o'clock this morning the Taft continued her voyage to Seattle.

The liner met much fog coming across the North Pacific, expected south of Aleutian Islands. This did not hinder her time, however.

The President Taft will have four days in port in Seattle this voyage. She is scheduled to sail outboard the Orient Saturday, passing through Victoria in the late afternoon on her way to sea.

The Hikawa Maru, of the N.Y.K. fleet, made quarantine Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. She proceeded to Vancouver, reaching the mainland port before midnight. Capt. T. Goto, master, reported a smooth passage, but said his ship encountered much fog.

Passengers aboard the Japanese liner were O. E. Nelson of Shanghai, en route to New York and Europe; H. E. Harcourt, going to Montreal, from where he will sail for London; Y. Higashi, manager of a large cotton mill at Dallas, Texas, returning from a visit to his former home in Japan, accompanied by Mrs. Higashi. The liner is bound for New York to take a steamer for England, and Mrs. G. Faber, en route to Los Angeles.

No further word having been received from Capt. A. J. Bailey, the Canadian liner, Empress of Canada, is still expected at the William Head quarantine station at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning on her way to Seattle from the Orient and Honolulu. She will dock at the Rithet piers about 7 o'clock and remain here two hours before proceeding to Vancouver. There are more than 300 passengers aboard.

With passengers and cargo for Victoria, the Empress motorship Pacific Empress is expected here this morning. First thing Thursday morning, by way of the Pacific Canal and California ports, it was announced this morning by King Brothers, local agents, the liner sailed from San Francisco yesterday at noon direct for Victoria.

Passengers aboard include C. B. Allen, P. Maxwell and Mrs. M. E. Fisher for Victoria, and Mr. P. Ashbridge and Miss I. W. Hutchinson for Vancouver.
